LABOR BANK CRASH LAID TO GRAB AT CHEAP BONDS

Thanks, Mr. Wilbur.

CONGRATULATIONS to Secretary Wilbur, who has ordered for our Navy two dirigibles that will be the biggest in the world.

They will be three times as big as the Los Angeles, one-third bigger than the German giant, Count Zeppelin, and each will carry, under the great gas bag, five airplanes for scouting.

The Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation will build them and friendly nations abroad are informed that we do not intend to be taken by surprise.

A FLEET of such dirigibles, each carrying 50 tons of explosives and modern war gas, able to unleash 100 fast destructive planes, would leave with Uncle Sam's compliments a visiting card in Europe or Asia that would not soon be forgotten.

We make war on no nation, but we should be ready and able to fill with subsequent regret any one attacking us.

MR. HOOVER was warmly received in Tennessee and elsewhere in the South. His declarations in favor of a proective tariff and protective immigration laws were heartily applauded.

THE South becomes more and more an industrial region, with immense natural wealth in coal, iron, water power and climate. It has long been said that many southerners vote the Democratic ticket and pray for the Republican ticket.

This year many will vote as they pray.

Anything approaching a free trade Democratic policy would crack the Solid South, with no other complication.

This year, however, as Mr. Raskob says, the Democratic party advocates high tariff and high wages.

JAMES SIMPSON, head and owner of Marshall Field & Co., in Chicago, starting for Europe, says he is for Hoover and "the purchasing power of the country is increasingly great. Our sales are bigger this year than for any like period in the history of our firm."

MR. SIMPSON can judge conditions. His retail and wholesale department each do the biggest business of any individual concern in this counry. His wholesale department puts him in touch with business conditions everywhere in the United States.

Mr. Simpson also says: "I do not think the election of Gov. Smith would injure the business of the United States. He is a very fine man and very human in his conduct toward his fellow men.'

Gov. Smith is the first Democratic candidate in many years not feared by big business interests.

WILLIAM W. BRECK, retired business man, fell dead while playing golf last Saturday. He was 64 years old.

At 64, make no violent effort, unless a good doctor has pronounced your heart "fool-proof."

Golf is good for old men that play as they should, talking, laughing, walking slowly. It's dangerous for those that strain and strive to better their game.

Remember, old gentlemen, that whether you go around in 130 or 101, the cosmos will roll on, just the same. Treat an old heart as you would a delicate vase, not as you would treat an old rubber boot.

A DIRIGIBLE, the Puritan, made by Goodyear, landed gently yesterday on a roof in Washington, remained five minutes, flew away.

That will interest Postmaster New and President Coolidge, who have made the postoffice efficient in aviation development.

They will want postoffices in big cities with air mail landings on the roofs. That should begin with gigantic postoffices in New York and Chicago.

SOME of the mail now goes by airplane ALL first-class mail will go by airplane soon.

Also passengers will travel more and more by air. Col. Lindbergh announces that the cros-country trip by Pullman car and airplane will hereafter include "Pullman sleeping planes."

Pullman cars will take passengers to Columbus, O., via the Pennsylvania Railroad, thence will fly to the coast, the passengers sleeping in the plane at night, making the trip from ocean to ocean in 48 hours. That is flying progress.

BIG New York, with about seven million population, and on its way to twenty millions, has about 125,000 new babies born each year, including 1,052 sets of twins on the average.

The population problem would be complicated, but for nature's wisdom that holds down increase, in the higher ranks of animal life.

A mouse has 100 children in a year, an elephant lives 100 years and has only one or two children.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, in a letter to the Italian Benevolent Society, Sons of Columbus Legion, praises our discoverer as one of the world's greatest men.

He was THE world's greatest for us.

Those that praise Columbus should not forget to praise his uncle, a Spanish Jew, who contributed more to the Columbus expedition than Queen Isabella, with her more or less mythical gift of jewels.

THE falling birth rate in Italy, and among white races generally, worries Mussolini, in spite of the fact that in one Italian village families average 11 living children.

With the white race vanishing, Mussolini thinks black and yellow races will rule this earth.

Girl Can't Find Her "Genius" In 500

Five hundred men have tried to strike flame in the heart of pretty Gedemmore Salsi, 23-year-old Pitt co-ed.

Five hundred suitors—and not one of them ideal!

Gedemmore, to whom genius is paramount; Gedemmore, to whom love is its blazing symbol, sadly muses on her "500," sighs with sense of the futility of search and the limitations of Pittsburgh's intellectuality, and turns elsewhere in her pursuit.

For Gedemmore, the girl who demands that her man must have no measure by custom or creed, who seeks in him only the wealth of culture and vision, not cash; who turns her eyes from the picture of common clay turned into beauty, who wants no Adonis—the girl who said only a week ago that he simply exceed the yardstick measure in his education and political ideas, today turns her eyes beyond Pennsylvania, even beyond the United States of America and its 50 or 60 million men.

May Try Europe

If necessary, this pretty, erudite 23-year-old girl will go to Europe or beyond to find "the one."

And that's that.

Easily 500 professional men, she says, answered her appeal of last Tuesday in the Sun-Telegraph, when she simply outlined what she wanted in the way of a husband. She had hoped that out of the big city of Pittsburgh, whether street or alley or estate, her "one of the millions" would appear to claim her.

But alas! she says, in a letter written in her home in Irwin, Pa., and received yesterday;

"I am disappointed. I thought that through the publicity my ideal man would show up at once—but he didn't. I thought that somewhere in the big city of Pittsburgh he would sit down to read the paper, see me, gasp, and exclaim, 'why, this is the girl I've been looking for.' Then I thought he would snatch his hat and run right over.

Got 500 Letters

"I have already received over 500 letters—mostly from professional men. Many of the other letters are from men just educated enough to think that they come up to my second requisite—yet not cultured enough to see that they are failing miserably.

"However, I thank all my correspondents. They have understood my character, and they like me. They feel an affinity with me—which I am sorry I cannot reciprocate."

Such is the attitude of Miss Salsi, who has made up her mind.

Not that friends, kind friends haven't advised her against it. A physician friend tells her there are no geniuses in America; an Englishwoman, kindly, motherly, told her that the method she is using is shameful! She hears that "everybody else finds his mate." And Miss Salsi says:

Wants to Pick Him

"No doubt everybody else 'finds his mate.' Other girls marry into their 'crowds;' or they pick up as the grand selection someone they have known all their lives; neighbor falls in love with neighbor, villagers intermarry until they are all related—but I hate that stuff! It is like the 'romance' of animals caged together (caged pigeons not only mate but live together ever afterwards). That's what I call free love.

"I don't want to marry a man simply because I know him—I want to pick him out myself!

"I am going to advertise for my ideal in every state in the Union, then in every state in Europe. If, however, at the end of my years I shall not have found him, I shall feel that my life has been miserably wasted.

And then Gedemmore Salsi, in communion with the poets and the literature of the ages, defines her conception of love:

"Love to me is like a lily—a white, tender, exquisite lily that must be carefully touched lest it be soiled or broken, but which is placed in a glass that everyone might see it, that it might be glorified. I have no 'guilty shame' or 'false modesty.'"

Of course, Miss Salsi's hopes have not been late born. They follow the visions of her youth; from her earlier years "he" has been in her dreams. And she concludes:

"I wish I could peek, for a moment, into the Golden Future. Like the old Abbe in Maupassant who looks at the moonlight, enraptured, and feels that the night was made for lovers, humanity will wake up some day to find that life was made for Love!"

And thus ends Gedemmore Salsi's first commentary on men, their mentality and Love.

DIRIGIBLE HOPES TO TAKE OFF WED.

Kline Invites Big Zeppelin to Pittsburgh

Mayor Charles H. Kline today dispatched a cablegram to Dr. Eckener, in charge of the flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Freidrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., asking that the huge dirigible include Pittsburgh in its itinerary, after it reaches Lakehurst, N. J. The flight over the Atlantic is due to start tomorrow.

[Keep in touch by wireless with the Graf Zeppelin in its flight to America through the Sun-Telegraph, whose correspondent will be aboard.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Oct. 8.—The Graf Zeppelin will clear for Lakehurst Tuesday afternoon. Today we expect to go out for several hours in a final tune up and to satisfy a few more of those who have deluged us with requests for a ride. Our guests will be taken from among those to whom we are somewhat indebted, and that includes the wives of our officers.

This statement was made to me by Dr. Eckener as he sat before a mountain of mail and telegrams when I came to his office to find him putting in a hard Sunday's work dictating.

"At the present moment," he said, "conditions look promising for getting away early Wednesday but will see what trick the weather gods are playing on the Atlantic. We will then try to figure out their next moves."

HAS NO ANXIETY

If the Commodore has the slightest anxiety about the flight he does not show a trace of it, as he says:

"Will we get to Lakehurst? What a question. Of course we will."

With two big hoses thrust into its bottom, and through which hydrogen lifting gas and blue gas for the motors were hissing into the respective cells of the baloneta, the giant airship looked as if it were being fed through the stomach.

Even now a full complement of the new gas motive power is not on hand and the ship will leave with probably not more than 25,000 cubic yards instead of the expected 30,000 cubic yards. Additional gasoline tanks were being put in today. About 16 or 17 tons of the benzine-

HELEN M. WEIR

Helen M. Weir, 26, 7325 Hermitage street, on her way home from church yesterday, was struck and fatally injured by the careening automobile of H. R. Britton, 36, Negro, 7219 Monticello street, just after it had collided with another car and just before it crashed to a stop in a jewelry store display window at Bennett street and Homewood avenue.

JUNCTION CITY, O., Oct. 8.—(INS.)—Heroism and loyalty of William O'Malley, 35, convict trusty, assisted by Chester F. Welch, 30, also a trusty, were held responsible for the escape of 256 prisoners from the holocaust which resulted when a dormitory at the brick plant here, a branch of Ohio State Penitentiary, was swept by flames this morning.

Twenty prisoners are missing, of whom 17 are believed to have met death and three to have gone "over the wall" during the pandemonium which followed the discovery of the blaze.

Caught like rats in a trap in the frame building, the prisoners shrieked and screamed as the structure became filled with choking fumes and stampeded from one end of the dormitory to the other

4TH SERIES GAME OFF AS RAIN FALLS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Staff Correspondent.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—There will be no play of the ball in St. Louis today. The fourth game of the world series was called off about 10:15 by Judge Landis, sole authority of matters of this kind.

A terrific rainstorm accompanied by thunder and lighting fell upon this part of Missouri during the night. The storm still raged when the natives and visitors were arising today.

Landis' decision was somewhat surprising in view of his past action in matters of this kind. It is true that Sportsman's Park was well drenched, but at 11 o'clock, as this is written, the skies seemed to be clearing.

DECISION UNPOPULAR

The decision was not applauded by those rabid fans who camped about the park during the night, but it is likely that the ruling is all for the best. The groundkeepers laid the tarpaulin down after yesterday's game and the infield is dry, but the uncovered sections are saturated.

It may be that the commissioner of the sport was swayed by his consideration for the fans. Three years ago in Pittsburgh more than 40,000 sat through the last game of the world series with rain falling the entire time and conditions in general being uncomfortable. The multitude was rewarded in seeing what many think was the most dramatic fight in world series history, but apparently Landis does not care to be responsible for a repetition of this event.

After the rain had stopped falling this morning one could go about quite comfortably without an overcoat. A drying wind from the East tended to dry up the park.

The folks who figured on leaving for New York tonight are disappointed. They felt that the Ruth-Gehrig juggernaut was moving at such a clip that the Cardinals could not stop it, and their deductions were reasonable, judging by the antics of Babe and Lou in yesterday's contest.

LOU AND BABE DO IT

The more one analyzes yesterday's game, the stronger is the conviction that the two sluggers upset the Cardinals with practically no other assistance. The home-run wallops of the great first-sacker are being proclaimed everywhere, but if you sift further you will learn that the game was won by Babe and Lou through their football-like base running in the exciting sixth inning. The story of the fight shows conclusively that the Yanks would have been blanked in this inning had not Frisch and Wilson failed in trying to make the third out. In other words, the Cards had two separate chances to prevent runs

LOUISE SUTTON

Three days after she married here, Mrs. Louise Sutton, 24, 219 Fourteenth street, Sharpsburg, eloped with Robert Dickson, 26, Rochester, N. Y., and together they stole a sedan from the garage of W. R. Williams, 7200 Monticello street, and went to Rochester, it was testified when both were held for court in Morals Court today. They were arrested in Rochester as the result of an automobile collision.

AIR FIELD SITE O.K.

The County Commissioners, by unanimous vote today, approved the Lebanon Church site, Mifflin township, for the proposed airport.

They authorized County Solicitor W. Heber Ditrich to begin court proceedings to condemn the necessary property at once. This is the final step in the acquisition of a suitable air field for Pittsburgh.

The action of the Commissioners was taken at a conference today, attended by members of the Chamber of Commerce airport committee, which first advanced this site, and members of Council.

At the conference it developed that 347 acres would be secured at once as a nucleus for the airport. The assessed value is $39,000. It was said that 1,800,000 cubic yards of earth must be moved to level this section of the site, those attending the conference pointing out that the typography of the district made the construction of an airport here more expensive than in New York, Chicago, Cleveland or other cities. The grading will cost 50 cents a yard.

Six hundred acres adjoining the 347 to be secured immediately are available for expansion. The site is 9.8 miles from the Pittsburgh postoffice, and 8.2 miles from the city line. It is two miles west of Bettis Field.

The acreage to be secured immediately will provide a circle of 2,640 feet in diameter, with additional runways of 4,700 and 5,500 feet. These dimensions will gain for Pittsburgh an A-1 rating from the Department of Commerce. When expanded to take in the additional 600 acres, the field will be given an A-1 A rating, the highest possible.

The motion to approve the site was made by E. V. Babcock, seconded by Joseph G. Armstrong. C. C. McGovern voted for it, although before the vote was taken he demurred a little, saying he understood practical aviators were to attend the conference today. Arthur E. Braun, head of the Chamber of Commerce committee, explained that an advisory group of aviators had assisted the committee in selecting the site. He said that 190 suggestions had been received by the committee.

COUNCIL AGREES

Councilman Garland reported concurrence of the councilmanic committee in the selection of the Lebanon road airport site to Council this afternoon. He explained that this was as far as the city could go until the county formally acquires the site, when the city's share of $1,500,000 will be turned over.

BOROUGH RACKET GRAFT PROBED

The probing searchlight of a grand jury that wants to know all about alleged graft systems in Pittsburgh and Allegheny county today shot its inquisitive rays on one of the liveilest towns in the county—Homestead.

Seated restlessly on crowded benches in the grand jury waiting room were 61 sober-faced witnesses. Thirty of them were from Homestead. Through them, District Attorney Gardner hopes to reveal to the grand jury any vice, organized or collusion between police and racketeers that exists in the mill town that attracts at least its share of high-life seekers.

At the same time Gardner kept an eye on John J. Verona's own territory when he subpenaed today the Rev. E. V. B. Hightower, Negro preacher, of the Hill district, who has charged time and again that the law is broken daily under the eyes of police.

After testifying before the jury for 35 minutes, the Rev. Hightower, at the exit door, handed Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Mack what reporters immediately recognized as a pint of whisky. It had presumably been used as evidence before the jury of the "possibility" of buying stuff on the Hill.

Witnesses called by the grand jury include:

TRIAL BARES PLOT BAIT

The offer of $5,500,000 bonds at 35 cents on the dollar was the bait in the big swindle two years ago involving officials of the defunct Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company, Charles E. Knapp, alleged go-between, testified today at the opening of the trial of three former officers of the bank. The late Charles A. Dinkey, steel man, "bit" to the extent of $150,000, he testified.

Knapp, released from Western Penitentiary, September 15, after serving 18 months for his part in the swindle, was called as the star witness for the commonwealth against Roland A. McCrady, president; William Kelly, vice president, and J. L. Nelson, cashier, charged with embezzling $102,500.75 of the Brotherhood Bank's funds to put into the "pool" for purchase of the bonds.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY

The three defendants withdrew their petition to quash the indictment against them and pleaded "not guilty" before Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff. A jury of eight women and four men is hearing the testimony.

Upon completion of the commonwealth's testimony shortly after noon, the defense moved for acquittal on the ground that the state had failed to show wilful extraction of the bank's funds. This motion was overruled, and defense witnesses were called.

McCrady, first witness called by the defense, told of how he, Dinkey and other "investors" in the Liberty bond pool, became worried at Knapp's prolonged absence after he had received $320,000 and notified detectives.

PURCHASE AUTHORIZED

McCrady testified he wanted to drive the bargain on the bonds to put the Brotherhood bank on its feet financially. He said the directors had passed a resolution authorizing the bond purchase deal with proceeds of the sale of foreign bonds. The defense asked for the minute book in custody of the commonwealth, which when produced, showed the resolution to have been passed August 21, 1926. The witness said he had pledged himself to make good any losses that might result from the "bond bargain" and had voluntarily made up $8,600 of the deficit remaining after recovery of about $290,000.

Knapp, the first witness, testified he had been introduced to McCrady in June of July, 1926, by Frank T. Redman, who, according to the commonwealth, was the alleged broker in the deal.

"I told McCrady I was trying to sell $5,500,000 of bonds at 35 cents on the dollar," Knapp testified. "I negotiated with McCrady and Kelly over a period of several months.

"On October 15, 1926, I went to the Brotherhood bank at 1:30 p. m. with Mr. McCrady from the latter's office. We went at once to the director's room. Some others came in and the matter of a pool of $320,000 was gone over. The money was to be paid to me and I was to go out and get the bonds and bring them back as

SMITH HAS LEAD IN NEW BATCH OF PGH. BALLOTS

The popularity of Gov. Alfred E. Smith among Pittsburgh voters, chiefly Republicans, is again manifest in the straw vote canvass of Pennsylvania conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Allegheny county was the first to be polled when the canvass was inaugurated in this state. It was extended to other counties when the local poll was about half completed. The poll has been renewed in this county and the first batch of returns have been received.

These are all form Pittsburgh wards. They total about 400 and give Smith a lead of nine votes over Herbert Hoover. Pittsburgh voters consistently supported the Democratic candidate in the beginning of the poll.

ACCURATE INDEX

Distribution of ballots to city wards has been completed. To insure an accurate index of sentiment, ballots have been mailed only to voters who were registered at the last election. Each district of the city has received its proportionate share of ballots based on its total registration.

Ballots will be mailed to suburban and rural districts this week. Names of voters are selected in a similar proportion from the enrollment lists on record in the Court House. Ballots are sent into each district of the city and county to 20 per cent of the registered or enrolled voters of the district.

The strength of Hoover in the rural counties give him a ... erable lead in the returns for the day, increasing his majority over Smith in the total vote to 14,240, with 70,172 ballots tabulated.

The totals to date in the Pennsylvania poll, conducted in connection with the nati... vide ... ..s by the Hearst papers, are: Hoover, 42,206—33,888 men and 8,318 women; Smith, 27,966—21,811 men and 6,155 women.

This vote was divided as follows in 1924: Coolidge, 47,796—38,390 men and 9,406 women; Davis, 7,836—6,627 men and 1,209 women; La Follette, 4,403; not voting, 10,137.

WIFE SUES HUSBAND GIVEN CASH BY GIRL EMBEZZLER

The second chapter in the revelations of a girl's theft of $15,000 for the married man she loved was written today in Desertion Court here.

Mrs. Irene Treacy, of Aurelia street, entered suit against J. P. Treacy, agent for the Teachers' Protective Union of Lancaster, for three months' payment of $5 weekly support for their child, a payment ordered by the court when the Treacys separated.

It was Treacy to whom Dorothy Currey, a stenographer-clerk at West Chester (Pa.) State Teachers College, gave much of the $15,000 she is charged with stealing from the school, according to revelations Saturday in Harrisburg. Dr. John A. H. Keith, state superintendent of public instruction, made public the report which brought about the girl's arrest.

Mrs. Treacy told a reporter for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that she was taking this action to make known that neither she nor her child had received any of the money which her husband is supposed to have taken from the girl.

"I haven't seen him for three years," Mrs. Treacy said, "and we are not divorced. We are separated."

Miss Currey told authorities, following her arrest, that she had met Treacy at Atlantic City in 1926 and had become infatuated with him. He never encouraged her to take the money, she said.

Treacy's employer said his headquarters were in Pittsburgh and that he was working now in West Virginia territory.

School Gardening :-: These Youngsters Know Tomatoes From Carrots :-: Produce Exhibited

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The farmer boy may not know his traffic lights, but some Pittsburgh youngsters can tell a tomato from a carrot. Here, Alice Duggan and Mary Rose Smith pull beets right out of their own garden!

TOMATOES

Now take tomatoes, for example. Virginia Carney and Eva Cotsanas are exhibiting them. All this, of course, is at Shakespeare Public School, East End, where pupils are taught gardening as part of their schooling.

CITY'S GARDENS

The city provides the gardens and the instructions and almost every public school child has an opportunity to work a garden of his own at some time in his grammar school career. Here's Shirley Madison with radishes.

GARDEN DEPARTMENT

Nick Cotsanas and Nicholas Paleos showed in the school's exhibition carrots and beets. The city schools' garden department, that of nature study and visualization, is headed by Dr. John H. Hollinger.

PICKING BEANS

It's great for young folks to be in gardens and out-of-doors and to work in the earth. Deno Kachioris here picks beans, nice, fresh yellow beans, too, that she was going to carry home for dinner.

2 GUILTY, 2 FREE IN WARD BAKERY HOLDUP

John Otis and Sylvester Mantz were found guilty of robbery in the Ward Baking Company holdup which netted $14,501. They were recommended to the mercy of the court.

William R. Murphy and George Schreiber, jointly charged with them, were found not guilty of robbery, but the four were found guilty of conspiracy. Rudy Swiderski, fifth member of the gang, was acquitted on instructions from the court.

The jury returned Saturday morning a sealed verdict, opened by Judge Elder W. Marshall today.

Two weeks ago, Otis and Mantz were convicted of the Castle Shannon street railway payroll holdup, which netted them $2,400.

In the Ward robbery, Heny Walker and Ed. LeGullion bank messengers, were held up April 2, last, at Thirty-first street and Spring way, while carrying the money.

Otis and Mantz are scheduled to go on trial today for a drug store robbery and Otis later will face trial for another grocery robbery.

M'CRADY ORDERS CHECK

"McCrady sent for Nelson and told him to make out a treasurer's check for $102,500.75. This check was cashed and the money brought into the directors' room. I put it with the other money for the pool in a black handbag. McCrady and I went out in a taxicab McCrady left the cab at Second Avenue and Market street."

Knapp testified McCrady told him to "Hurry back," but that he "forgot" to return.

"Where were you to go with the money?" asked Assistant District Attorney Harry R. Phillips.

"I was to go to Edward A. Goodfellow's, on Perrysville road, where the money was to be turned over," testified Knapp. Goodfellow served a jail sentence on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

"Who owned these bonds, where were they coming from?" asked Phillips.

"I was getting them from John Rusky, of Chicago."

"What was his address?"

"I never had it, but I had his telephone number."

"Was he looked for in Chicago and never found?"

"I believe so."

KEPT SOURCE DARK

Asked if he had ever told McCrady who owned the bonds and why they were on the market at that price, Knapp replied: "No, I never gave him these details."

"Did Harry Braun put $10,000 in the pool, and did the late C. A. Dinkey go into it?"

"Yes," Knapp testified. "Dinkey put in $150,000. Prior to that I gave him some coupons from some of the bonds so he could check up."

"Had McCrady given you $25,000 or to buy some of these s?"

BROKER IS CALLED

Frank T. Redman, alleged broker, indicted for larceny of $102,500.75 in the case, but not yet brought to trial, was the next witness. He testified he was at the Brotherhood bank on October 15, 1926, and was present when the check for the $102,500.75 was made out to him.

The check was offered in evidence. It had been made out to "Redmond & Co." When the difference in name was called to Redman's attention, he testified he indorsed the check "Redmond & Co.," then signed his own name. Redman said he knew the check was cashed, but that the received none of the money.

R. G. Ferguson, state bank examiner, testified the Brotherhood bank had been in bad condition prior to the alleged embezzlement and that it was closed the day after the swindle.

A battery of attorneys was at the counsel table. Assistant District Attorneys Harry R. Phillips and Earl T. Jackson represented the commonwealth; Attorney James H. McClure was present as counsel for McCrady; Homer N. Young for Nelson and Benjamin Lencher for Kelly. Maj. R. M. Ewing represented the State Banking Department.

BANK FUNDS LOW

At the afternoon session, Bank Examiner Ferguson testified there was only $8,000 cash in the bank the day following the transaction, notwithstanding the bank had borrowed $10,000 from another bank the day before.

Clyde S. Edeburn, former inspector of detectives, and Detective John J. Crouse testified as to the digging up of a total of $288,000 in the yard of Goodfellow's home.

benzol mixture will be taken aboard for the trip. For lubrication for the motors an American oil will be used on the transocean flight.

Unless unusually strong head winds have to be contended with for an unexpected period, the ship will have enough fuel and oil supplies for the round trip.

MASCOTS OFFERED

The Graf Zeppelin will have one live mascot—a canary. Something like a thousand canaries have been offered for that distinction, but "Hansi," beautiful golden warbler selected by Frau Eckener from those already sent in, is to be the only one taken along.

The Hagenback Zoo offered a huge parrot of a rare species as a Zeppelin mascot, but it was said that it would quickly die if exposed to draughts. As ventilating is one of the strong points of the Graf Zeppelin, the parrot's life probably would have been very short, and it was therefore declined.

In addition to "Hansi," there are numerous inanimate mascots, including a velvet cat above the pilot wheel, a blue monkey on the chart table in the navigation room.

A parachute manufacturer wants to equip the Graf Zeppelin with parachutes and brought his samples. Another inventor thinks we ought to carry a number of large canvas and rubber rafts that can be blown up with air to float the passengers and crow if we should come down in the ocean.

from the East, arrested as suspicious characters in the Fort Pitt Hotel Saturday, were turned over to Gardner after they admitted they had come to Pittsburgh to buy slot machines for the Broadway trade.

The visitors, Edward Wright, Thomas Franklin and Edward Harris, are said to have come here to meet a certain Isadore Rosenberg. Police have been unable to further identify Mr. Rosenberg and still are searching for him. If he is located he also will be summoned to tell the probing jury what he knows of protected vice.

Gardner said he believes the grand jury will remain in session all of October and perhaps longer. The witnesses this week will be called and questioned just as rapidly as possible, so that the grand jury can assemble its evidence and return indictments without delay.

TRUSTY SAVES 256 IN FIRE

seeking escape from the flames, which, licking at the supports of the building, threatened to send the dormitory crashing to the ground.

O'Malley, a baker, of Cleveland, under sentence of three to five years for stealing automobiles, was baking bread in the bakery which, with the warden's office, was located in a corner of the dormitory building, when he smelled smoke and heard the crackling of the flames.

Running outside, O'Malley saw flames leaping through the roof of the dormitory. In the basement, built of concrete, were six guards, who, choking with the smoke, were unable to unlock the basement door.

O'Malley hurled himself time after time at the door, using his shoulder as a ram. The door finally gave way and the guards, choking and coughing, rushed out.

Close on their heels, like stampeded cattle, came the convicts. Indescribable pandemonium broke out.

MANY TRAMPLED

Many convicts were believed to have been trampled to death in the rush for safety, others were thought to have been killed by falling debris and still others, unable to squirm their way through the mass of struggling, panic-stricken prisoners at the door, are thought to have met death in the building. Three of those who were rescued by the efforts of O'Malley are said to have taken the opportunity to scale the prison walls and make a bid for liberty, fleeing to the surrounding hills.

When the prisoners streamed out of the dormitory, Trusty Welch formed a volunteer fire force and attempted to beat out the flames, but the flimsy structure burned with the rapidity of pitch and was soon reduced to ashes.

Dawn showed a blackened, charred heap of smoldering ruins of what was once the dormitory and disclosed gruesome spectacles in the smoking debris.

Whole skeletons, skulls and bones scattered throughout the pile of smoking timbers showed where many of the prisoners met death as they attempted to gain the door and freedom. It was impossible for officials at the prison to compute the exact number of dead until a check-up is made with the warden's roster, which was saved by H. C. Blosser, deputy warden, who was in charge of the prison when the flames broke out.

PLOT SUSPECTED

It was at first believed that the dormitory had been set afire by prisoners who sought to make their escape, but officials at the institution were inclined to doubt this theory and declared they believed the blaze to have been due to defective wiring.

2 CHURCHES GET TRUSTS YIELDING $30,000 YEARLY

Business trusts that will yield in excess of $30,000 annually were created for two local churches yesterday, according to announcements made by the pastors of the two congregations. The endowments were announced by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr and Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastors of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church and the Sixth United Presbyterian Church.

Both clergymen announced that the names of the donors must not be mentioned in any way with the gifts and at no time should they be made public. Dr. Kerr informed the members of his church that a certain family of his congregation had created the fund. A like explanation was made by Dr. Robinson.

Neither of the ministers would discuss the gift. It was also impossible to learn the amount of the principal sum of the endowment. It takes only little figuring to show that the total of the endowment must be approximately one and one-half millions if a revenue in excess of $60,000 is to be returned. The donors have arranged that the trust shall go on through all time and all changes which may occur in the respective churches.

Yesterday marked the beginning of Dr. Kerr's sixteenth year as pastor of the Shadyside church. In accepting the gift Dr. Kerr said:

"We accept the gift as a challenge to faith and an incentive to fuller Christian consecration. It is God's call to our congregation to dedicate ourselves to increased interest in and enthusiasm for the church, and to a more devoted service in the faith and fellowship of the Gospel."

The fund for the Shadyside church is to pass through the church treasury and to be divided as follows: $10,000 to be given each year to the Board of Trustees for general operating expenses of the church; $20,000 to be given annually to the missionary and benevolent funds as follows: $5,500 each year to the Board to the Board of Christian Education; $5,500 each year to the cause of home missions and $3,500 each year to the Board of Pensions.

Dr. Robinson announced the division for his church as follows:

One-third of the sum to be devoted to the activities of the congregation, divided equally between current expenses and certain missionary activities; two-thirds to be distributed among the missionary activities of the United Presbyterian Church as follows: Board of Home Missions, $5,000; Board of Foreign Missions, $5,000; Board of Ministerial Relief, $7,500, and Board of Education, $2,500.

RAIN PREVENTS 4TH GAME

and they failed both times through inferior fielding.

Ruth's dive into Wilson was not missed by many rival managers and players who looked on from the stands. Wilson had the ball with Ruth still 10 to 15 feet from the plate. Of course, the Babe, like any other player, is entitled to slide, but when a man more powerful than Jim Thorp and like Jim, with a skill in running, smashes into a fellow of Wilson's size, something just has to give.

Some part of Babe's feet hit the catcher quite high on his chest protector. Advices coming today to the Sun-Telegraph from the Cardinal players are to the effect that one of Babe's feet struck Wilson in the hands, thereby dislodging the ball. From the press box it appeared as if Babe did not try to kick the ball out of Wilson's hand, but the catcher could not hold to it after receiving the terrific bump. Perhaps Jim was still dazed, as he made a surprising throw to center field when he scrambled to his feet.

Wilson's intuition, even if he were dazed, may have told him that Meusel would be rushing toward second, so the catcher let fly without looking for any target. About this same time, Frisch was out of commission and there was general confusion in the infield. Douthit retrieved the ball and held Meusel at third and time was stopped until first aid could be given Frisch.

What Babe did to Wilson at the plate was not a bit more than the Gehrig thrust at Frisch, which made the whole three runs possible. And if the Fordham Flash had not been awkward in making a double play Gehrig's dive into the second sacker would have been to no avail.

Hughey Critz and one or two superior pivot men on a double play would have escaped Frisch's fate. Instead of stepping aside on Gehrig to throw out Meusel to complete a double play that would have retired the side, the driving collegian stayed plumb in Lou's line and the big boy stepped on him as he was throwing the ball. The favorite trick of a lot of baserunners worked. After the subsequent incident at the plate, Frank went down for treatment, but it was disclosed that there was no bad injury so he continued in play. The steamrollers, however, had accomplished their work.

SCHACHT'S WISCRACK

Al Schacht, the other half of the Nick Altrock act, sized up the critical situation tersely last night as the crowds headed back from the third debacle.

"To keep this thing from being a push-over," said Nick, "the rules committee ought to have an emergency meeting and pass a law making it permissible for Babe and Lou to go to the plate just once in each ball game. They can do enough damage in one time at bat without allowing them to go up there four times."

U. S. DEMANDS REPORT ON PARDON FOR FORNEY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Protests against the granting of a presidential pardon to Alfred W. Forney, slot machine king now in jail in Pittsburgh, have resulted in the Department of Justice here asking for a complete report of the case against Forney from United States Attorney John D. Meyer at Pittsburgh.

All petitions for executive clemency must first be taken up by the pardon board of the department before going to the preside and it was to the board that the protests were sent.

Department of Justice operatives will investigate all angles of Forney's record and endeavor to learn why his release is sought. Meyer also is asked why he recommended a pardon for Forney.

One of the protests was from Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington at Pittsburgh. This protest has reached the prohibition headquarters here but has not yet been forwarded to the board. It was understood that if Forney's testimony was wanted in the case against other persons indicted with him, it would favor the granting of his pardon.

Meyer's letter favoring the pardon indicates that he intends to use Forney's knowledge to help convict those who were named with him in the indictments returned last May.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure covers the eastern states, with its crest over Eastern Pennsylvania and northward to Vermont. Another high is centered over the plateau section, west of the Rockies. Highest barometer, 30.22 inches at Boise, Idaho. The highs are attended by clear skies, generally, and moderately cool. There is, however, dense fog over the valleys of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and in the adjacent mountains.

Separating the high pressure areas is a low, centered over Manitoba, and with a trough formation extending southward over Minnesota and Iowa to Texas. This disturbance is producing considerable cloudiness over the Central Valleys and the Lake Region, and thunderstorms and light rains in Missouri, Southern Kansas, and Western Illinois. There were also sprinkles of rain in North Dakota, and northward over Saskatchewan.

More thinking, with fewer babies, would be safe for the white race.

MICHIGAN sent a 55-year-old farmer to prison "for the rest of his natural life" for having a still in his house, his fourth criminal offense.

It would be easy to stop bootlegging if the nation really wants to stop it. But the nation doesn't.

The South doesn't want Negroes to have gin. Farmers don't want hired men to get whisky. Prosperous industrialists, with cellars of champagne, don't want mechanics to drink alcohol and get tangled up in swift modern machinery. But they all want, WHAT they want, for themselves. Therefore bootlegging will continue.

RETURN FROM CHURCH, FIND FATHER HANGED

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—When they returned home from church yesterday the four children of Charles Stefanaski, 32, found the lifeless body of their father hanging from a rope attached to a door in the kitchen. The suicide is believed to have been due to despondency over the recent death of his

MOUNDSVILLE MAYOR FINDS SUICIDE'S BODY

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Sam Levy, 59, well known here, drowned himself in the Ohio River late Saturday night. His body was found yesterday by Mayor Jesse Sullivan. Dr. D. B. Ealy, coroner, issued the verdict of suicide. Financial stress was blamed.

CURBSTONE WORSHIP IN "HOLY CITY"

Again today, as last Monday, Wilkinsburg, termed the "The Holy City" because of its many churches, buzzes over Sunday's developments in the factional warfare at South Avenue M. E. Church, where a "modernist" pastor and board have closed the doors of the church to Melvin W. Callender men's Bible class because of its "fundamental" discussions. This, on the sidewalks, again yesterday was the class' meeting place, as last Sunday. J. S. Scobey played the portable organ, an innovation at this week's services. Wives and friends of class members are heartily in sympathy with the class and attended. Of 1,000 in the congregation, about 150 were in the church and 250 on the "curbstone."

LOS ANGELES SOARS OVER TEXAS LEGION CONVENTION

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—After circling for more than an hour over this city, thronged with visitors for the opening of the national American Legion convention, the monster Navy dirigible Los Angeles left at 11 o'clock today for Fort Worth, where it planned to anchor to a mooring mast.

"We're out of San Antonio, headed for Fort Worth," was the message picked up by radio receivers at Fort Sam Houston, near here, from the shark-like, silver-colored giant of the air.

BLUE LAW STOPS SERIES BROADCAST IN ALTOONA

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 8.—Several thousand baseball fans in Altoona heard about Sunday's world series game in St. Louis between the Cardinals and the Yankees from their neighbors today for they were deprived of first hand radio information by the ancient blue law of Pennsylvania.

Police enforced the Sunday law of 1794 yesterday and stopped the Altoona Tribune from announcing to a crowd of 4,000 persons in the streets in front of the newspaper office the play-by-play account of the game.

Mike McNally, baseball umpire, who was doing the announcing, was threatened with arrest. After the announcing was halted and the crowd broken up police patrolled the streets about the newspaper office to prevent resumption of the broadcasting.

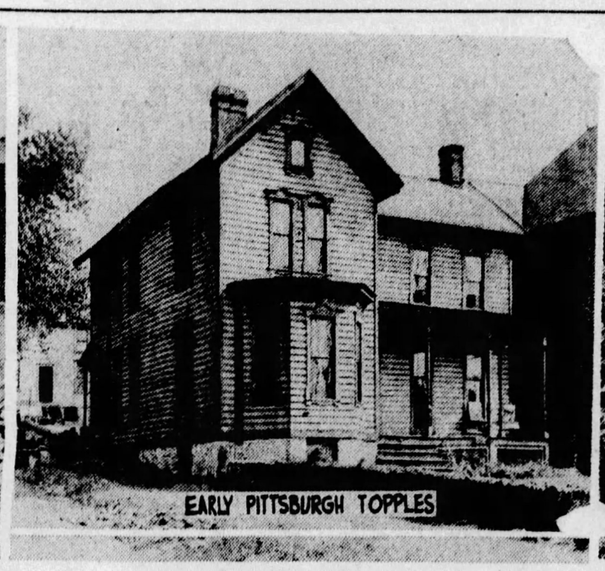
Ministers of Altoona also halted the bradcasting program of the series at 4 o'clock over radio station WFBE, of which the newspaper is a joint owner, when they insisted on taking the air at that time for church broadcasting as has been their Sunday custom since the station was licensed.

SMITH READY FOR BORDER STATE DRIVE

Crossing Avoided :-: Old Homes Pass to Make Way for Boulevard :-: Second Avenue

MARION JUNCTION

"Old Pittsburgh" is passing today out along Second avenue at Marion Junction where the city is building a boulevard to eliminate dangerous grade crossings of the B. & O. Railroad. Above are shown operations.



M'CUNE HOMESTEAD

Among the old homesteads that are crashing under workmen's hammers is that of Jim McCune, 4601 Second avenue. McCune years ago in Pittsburgh was well-known as a sportsman and horse fancier. Remember?

A BOULEVARD'S PATH

Here is Senator Gilbert's old homestead, showing in the foreground four other sites that already have been razed beyong recognition. Over these properties will pass Irvine boulevard into Greenfield.

JUDGE'S HOME

Judge Haymaker at one time lived in this house, on which razing has already started. The new boulevard is to cost $787,000 and eliminate two grade crossings which have seen many accidents in the past few years.

AMENDMENT ENABLES CITY IMPROVEMENTS

Included among the 14 proposed constitutional amendments that will be voted upon by the people of Pennsylvania at the general election November 6 is one to increase the debt limit of Pittsburgh from 7 to 10 per cent.

By the adoption of that movement, the city's borrowing capacity would be increased by more than $33,000,000, thus paving the way for necessary public improvements. This amendment will be Number 8 on the ballot.

The total assessed valuation of Pittsburgh's taxable property is 1,108,842,440, the debt limit, at seven per cent, being $77,618,947. At 10 per cent it would be 110,884,244.

According to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and other city officials a 10 per cent debt limit is conservative.

HIGHER RATE GENERAL

The 7 per cent limit was established 54 years ago, before progress made necessary such improvements as a subway, wider and more substantial highways, an airport, seawalls and playgrounds. Most other cities, they point out, have a debt limit of 10 per cent or higher.

At the same time, the citizens of Pennsylvania will be called upon to vote for or against another proposed amendment that would increase the debt limit of Philadelphia, now 10 per cent, to 14 per cent. This is Number 11 on the ballot. It has the support of Mayor Harry A. Mackey and most of the other officials of Philadelphia.

NEW ASSESSMENT PLAN

Closely allied with the proposal to increase Pittsburgh's borrowing limit from 7 to 10 per cent is proposed amendment Number 7, which would give the Legislature power to authorize Pittsburgh to levy special assessments against both abutting and non-abutting property, according to benefits derived, for the payment of any public improvement. This is known as the benefit or district assessment plan.

This amendment was presented to the Legislature at the instance of former Mayor William A. Magee. Its supporters advance it as the best method to pay for such improvements as a rapid transit system, subways, sewerage systems, highway tunnels and bridges, wharves, flood protection devices and other projects.

From now until election day supporters of the proposal to increase Pittsburgh's debt capacity and of the amendment that would enable the benefit assessment plan to go into effect expect to make as complete a campaign as possible to persuade voters here to mark an "X" after Numbers 7 and 8 on the ballot.

It is regarded as likely that, in return for support of the Philadelphia amendment here, the organization there will turn in a good majority for the two Pittsburgh amendments mentioned in this article.

$500 Bail Forfeited In Raid

Five hundred dollars cash bail put up by C. L. Ray last night following a raid on his alleged disorderly house, second floor, 515 East Diamond street, was declared forfeited by Magistrate E. M. Hough in North Side Police Station today, due to Ray's failure to appear. Twelve visitors were discharged.

The raid was made on complaint of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Losey, 605 Union avenue, who alleged their son, Adam, 20, had been beaten in there on October 3. The boy is now in Allegheny General Hospital, suffering from a compound fracture of the jaw. A man whom the Loseys accuse of attacking their son was not present when the raid was made, and is still at large. Lieut. James Callaghan and squad, who conducted the raid, testified they found a five-gallon bottle of moonshine in the place.

2 Chicago Theaters Held Up

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—One man held up the Chicago Theater, the city's largest movie palace, and escaped with $6,400 last night while 5,000 patrons viewed the show.

A short time later two men robbed the Bel-Park Theater in North Cicero avenue of $2,300, just as the house emptied after the final show.

The Chicago Theater robber forced five employes into the treasurer's office and in less than five minutes fled with most of the day's receipts.

He escaped as he entered, unnoticed by employes or patrons. A policeman had left the treasurer's office in the basement only a moment before the thief entered.

VOLUNTEERS OF AMERICA ASK PUBLIC TO NURSERY

As part of the thirty-second anniversary observance of the founding of the Volunteers of America by General and Mrs. Ballington Booth, the local commanders, Maj. and Mrs. Richard H. Ives, have invited the Pittsburgh public to inspect the work at the Volunteer Day Nursery at 509 West North avenue, North Side, beginning today and continuing all during the week. Last year the Volunteers cared for more than 1,300 poor children at the nursery.

EX-PROFESSOR HERE DIES

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The Rev. Edward Galway, 66, rector of Corpus Christi Roman Catholic Church here since 1898, died last night. He was a native of St. Johns, N. F.

Prior to assuming the pastorate here, Father Galway was for a number of years professor of mathematics at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh.

MAN KILLS HIMSELF AT SCENE OF 'APE MURDER'

In the same room of the house in which "the ape man" murdered Mrs. Anna Kirker in Buttermilk Hollow, Mifflin township, a man's body, apparently of a suicide, was found today.

In ill health and brooding over his wife's death, Jacob Gessner, 52, shot himself through the temple with a shotgun, police report. His daughter, Rosalie, discovered the body.

The "ape man case" attracted national attention eight years ago. A few days before Christmas, in this Lebanon Church road house, Mrs. Kirker was shot to death. Eventually a Negro, Joe Thomas, known as the "ape man," was electrocuted for the murder. He went to the chair denying his guilt.

52,000 Get On Books To Vote

Registration in the machine controlled wards of Pittsburgh slumped on the final registration day, Saturday, to such an extent that the anticipated total of 200,000 still is several thousand away.

An aggregate of 52,000 was the total Saturday estimated by the registration commissioners, who had figured that the final day would eclipse the two previous totals. On the first registration 62,671 were enrolled, and on the second day 58,508.

That the final registration would not be up to normal was indicated by activities at the county delinquent tax office. There was a noticeable apathy shown in tax payments from machine-controlled wards, although independent wards showed the anticipated increase. A complete checkup on the 724 districts in the city will be made today.

PENNA. LAW UP IN HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The Supreme Court today will hear argument in a case of national importance, presenting an issue of vital moment to capital invested in chain stores.

It comes from Pennsylvania where there is a law licensing drug stores. The Louis K. Liggett Company wanted to open a drug store at Hanover, but was refused a license because the company is not owned by registered pharmacists.

Pointing out that the drug business of the store would be in charge of employes who are registered pharmacists, the company sued but lost in the lower courts.

The company insists that should the interpretation placed upon the law by the state officials and the lower courts prevail, large companies having a prescription department for the sale of drugs would be prevented from doing business in states having statutes similar to those of Pennsylvania.

NORTH-SOUTH AIR LINE NEXT

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Plans for an international air transport line from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico through the Mississippi Valley were considered here by directors of the recently formed Universal Aviation Corporation, holding company of the Universal Air Line Company and its subsidiary units.

Announcement of the proposed air route was made by W. F. Bliss, of the Universal Air Line Company. The meeting was preceded by consolidation of the Robin Air Line Company of St. Louis with the Universal Air Line Company.

Inauguration of the Canad-to-the Gulf route, if directors of the aviation corporation approve the plan, hinges upon the date on which manufacturers can deliver specially built planes, said Mr. Bliss.

WRONG 'PHONE NUMBER SOUNDS FIRE ALARM

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 8.—Every time the number 110 is dialed in the automatic telephone system of Butler, the fire signal in the central department is sounded. Recent false fire alarms are believed due to the unintentional ringing of the alarm by persons who dial for other numbers.

G. O. P. LEADERS HERE TO MAP FINAL DRIVE

The final drive of the campaign in behalf of the Republican National and state tickets will be inaugurated at a meeting in the Hotel Henry Wednesday night at 8 oclock, in which every working element of the Republican organization of the county will be represented.

Complete unity of action is expected to result from this gathering which will include beside the officers of the campaign organization Mayor Charles H. Kline and all his department heads, all the Republican county officials and their principal subordinates and executives and the city and ward chairmen of Pittsburgh and the City chairman of the other municipalities within the limits of the county.

In addition to these, the leaders of the independent Republican factions and men active in the campaign outside of organization circles, have been invited to attend, and every faction of the party will be represented.

Meetings also will be held nearly every evening, besides the rallies of county committee women and women workers of the legislative districts. The biggest meeting so far scheduled is one to be held in McKeesport in the Penn-McKee Hotel at 8 p. m. Thursday, under the auspices of the Council of Republican Women.

These meetings of county committee women and women workers of legislative districts will be held this week in the Hotel Henry headquarters at 2 p. m., Mrs. Frazier presiding:

Today, Tenth District: speakers, Assemblymen James H. McClure, Arthur Storer, S. J. Riddle and Carl C. Baldridge, Coroner W. J. McGregor, S. J. Topley, M. B. Lesher and William H. Coleman. Tomorrow, cities of McKeesport, Clairton and Duquesne: speakers, Assemblyman John Rhodes, Senator W. D. Mansfield and Mr. Coleman. Wednesday, meeting of the vice chairmen of all Pittsburgh wards.

RAILROAD CAR SPILL INJURES 4 WORKMEN

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 8.—Hurled from a gasoline car on which they were riding to work at McCalmont this morning, four Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad carpenters were seriously injured. Three of them, P. E. Nick, Nevin Long and Gus Beck, are unconscious in Butler Hospital. The fourth, A. D. Adams, is being treated for a broken knee cap. The car on which they were riding left the rails and turned over several times.

3 Held in Campaign Swindle

Accused of obtaining money under false pretense, three men who are alleged to have made an unauthorized collection for the Democratic party in Allegheny county were held for court by Magistrate John Orie in Central Police Court today.

David Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, appeared against them and insisted that they be held for court trial. The men, Robert Tomlinson, Scott township; James Ritchie, St. James street, and Leo Gallagher, Keystone street, are alleged to have collected $300 on fake credentials purporting to have been issued by the local Democratic committee.

URGES WELFARE BOND PASSAGE

Dr. Wilmer Krusen, president of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, was the guest of honor at the Hungry Club luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel today and delivered an address on the "Welfare Bond Issue," in which he said:

"One of the most important questions to be decided by the voters at the November election relates to the care of Pennsylvania's unfortunate citizens by improving the state institutions for the insane, feeble-minded, epileptic and delinquents. The proposed $50,000,000 bond issue, which is designated on the ballot as Amendment No. 10 to the state constitution, contemplates a 6-year building program to relieve the seriously over-crowded condition at these institutions. Let us help correct a situation that has brought disgrace to the state through neglect of our helpless wards. I make this appeal entirely on humanitarian grounds, not alone for these unfortunate persons, but for the general welfare of the commonwealth."

Blaw-Knox Denies Merger

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

News dispatches from New York and information obtained from reliable financial sources here were the basis for the statement that negotiations are under way to merge the Blaw-Knox Company, Pressed Steel Car Company and the Universal Pipe and Radiator Company.

Officials of the Pressed Steel Car Company both in New York and Pittsburgh, when questioned regarding the merger reports, stated that an announcement might be made shortly.

Close-working arrangements are being built up among the three organizations through the election of interlocking boards of directors, Wall street reports say.

That the Lehman interests have assumed an active share in the management of both Pressed Steel Car and Universal Pipe and Radiator is indicated by the fact that they have secured representation on the boards of directors of both companies.

Irvin F. Lehman, vice president of the Blaw-Knox Company, and George P. Rhodes were elected directors of the Pressed Steel Car Company.

A. C. Lehman, president of the Blaw-Knox Company, Irvin F. Lehman and George P. Rhodes were elected directors of the Universal Pipe and Radiator Company. James D. Rhodes was elected president.

Yesterday A. C. Lehman issued a statement denying that his company is in any way involved in the proposed consolidation.

"So far as the Blaw-Knox Company is concerned, the report is without foundation in fact," said Mr. Lehman. "No consolidation or merger including the Blaw-Knox Company has been perfected or is under negotiation with the above-named companies or with any other companies."

Reports persist in financial circles that a consolidation of Pressed Steel Car Company and the Universal Pipe and Radiator Company may be made.

SMITH PREPARED FOR BORDER STATE DRIVE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Gov. Al Smith's real drive for the presidency gets under way this week.

The West is behind him. The border states are at hand. The East lies ahead.

This week the Democratic nominee invades the border country. This section is doubtful. It is also necessary to Smith if his candidacy is to be successful in November. Figure as they will, the Democratic managers cannot envision Democratic success in November without some of the border states.

Next Saturday Gov. Smith will be in Louisville, Ky. All of Friday he will be in Tennessee. The week following he will be in Missouri. He already has been in Oklahoma. Maryland, another important border state, is being saved until later in the campaign.

Gov. Smith probably will speak on the tariff at Louisville. There in the Blue Grass country, he will lay low the charge that he is "a tariff for revenue only" Democrat, and blossom forth as a protectionist. That at least is the prospect.

The itinerary for Gov. Smith's second week on the road was still undecided today. Sedalia, Mo., and Chicago are still on the schedule for the second week, but whether there will be other dates appeared doubtful today.

There has been a good deal of dickering over an Ohio date, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus being considered. Today it appeared problematical whether Gov. Smith will speak at all in the state, similarly with Indiana.

The governor has striven constantly to cut down the number of speeches originally mapped out for him by the national committee. He intends to make at most not to exceed 15 speeches during the campaign. Six of those he has delivered in the West. He figures on four more in the border states, leaving the rest to be scattered throughout the East in the final two weeks of the campaign.

Gov. Smith will leave Albany tomorrow on the first leg of his second tour. He will go to New York for conferences with party leaders before proceeding on to Tennessee Thursday.

See Hoover Breaking South

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Herbert Hoover is certain to carry Tennessee and Virginia and has an "even chance of winning North Carolina and Alabama, it was declared here today by members of his "board of strategy" in summarizing the effects of his one-day invasion of the solid South.

The Hoover campaign meanwhile roared into high gear. Charles Evans Hughes, standard-bearer of the 1916 campaign, and William E. Borah, the "Lone Wolf" of Idaho, will share the limelight with the nominee during the last month of the campaign. Other speakers will be broadcasted in the East and West, every morning and evening until election day.

Borah, just concluding a long swing through the West, will return here this week to confer with Hoover. Then he will leave again on a tour of six states—West Virginia, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. He will speak in New York City toward the close of the campaign.

Hughes will open his speaking tour in behalf of Hoover at Sedalia, Mo., within the next two weeks. Then he will make four more prepared addresses, closing the campaign in Brooklyn. He also will speak in Massachusetts and upstate New York, according to present plans.

Hoover himself will make two more speeches in the East, one at Boston, October 15, and the other in New York City, October 22. He may add a third for the last week of October, before he leaves for his California home to vote.

The Hoover leaders hope he will make as favorable an impression on New England as he did upon the South. They shared the opinion of Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, chairman of the Republican speakers' bureau at New York, who said:

"Mr. Hoover will carry Tennessee by a larger majority than that won by President Harding. He will carry Virginia, too. In North Carolina and Alabama, he looks a victor, too, and unless there is a last-minute change, he will carry both of these states."

George Fort Milton, Chattanooga publisher and Democratic leader, and a close friend of William Gibbs McAdoo, expressed the same opinion. He predicted Hoover would carry Tennessee by 15,000 plurality and Virginia by a similar margin. He classed North Carolina and Alabama as "doubtful" states, but expressed the opinion that Democratic leaders might subdue the Hoover sentiment there before election day and keep both states Democratic.

GIRL, 16, PILOTS LINDY IN PLANE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—With Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the passenger's seat and a 16-year-old girl at the controls, a Loening amphibian plane rose from Hempstead Harbor yesterday, bucking a gusty wind, and circled about 1,500 feet in the air while the girl handled the ship with the skill of a veteran flier.

Col. Lindbergh had flown the plane a short time before. He went up again as a passenger when Miss Eleanor Hoyt, daughter of Richard F. Hoyt, a broker, announced her wish to try it out.

The Colonel commended the ease and ability with which she guided the ship.

KEITH-R. C. A. MERGER FOR RADIO PICTURES REPORTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The idea of sitting in your neighborhood movie theater and watching the newsreel reflect world series while the game is taking place, was advanced the realm of financial possibility here by the reported consummation of the first steps toward an alliance of the Radio Corporation of America with the Keith-Albee-Orpheum theater interests.

"Radio movies" is said to be the goal of this huge industrial alliance, reported to involve $500,000,000.

The Radio Corporation is reported to be about to assume a substantial interest in the big theater chain, with a holding company to effect the merger being organized under the direction of Blair & Co. and Lehman Brothers, of Wall street.

The Radio Corporation controls the new talking movie device known as the "photophone."

UNIVERSAL DRAFT URGED

NEW R.R. SAFETY DEVICE BARES FAULTY RAILS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Adoption of an electrical machine designed to sweep from the tracks of American railways the broken rail source of accidents is announced by the American Railway Association.

The association described it as "one of the most important safety moves in years, which will add a new factor of security to the work already done in decreasing the number of broken rails."

The trouble aimed at is "rail cancer," the cracks known as transverse fissures, which are invisible.

The machine proceeds along the rails at seven miles an hour, methodically squirting a dab of white paint on any spot where one of these hidden cancers exists.

It starts within a week on a demonstration tour of the principal American railways.

For 17 years American railways have had the rail cancer under laboratory research.

The fissure detector is towed over the rails. It was invented by Elmer A. Sperry, who perfected the gyroscopic compass.

It runs an electric current through the rails directly beneath the car. The hidden breaks which this current will meet, if they exist, are described as less than a molecule in thickness. That is, even with the crack on the outside, it would not be visible in an ordinary microscope. Nevertheless, this tiniest of cracks disturbs the electric current.

Through vacuum tubes the faint impulse which brushes pick up, is magnified 6,000 times, which makes it powerful enough to squirt the paint.

6,000 SPANISH WAR VETS START REUNION AT HAVANA

HAVANA, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Battles of the Spanish-American War are being re-fought in words in many hotel lobbies of Havana where veterans meet former comrades gathering for the convention of the United Spanish War Veterans.

More than 6,000 already arrived are partaking of the unrestricted privileges which Cuba has granted the men who aided in obtaining her independence. More ships are due today, with 800 additional veterans.

Pres. Gerardo Machado and other prominent Cubans yesterday received at the State Department Admiral Hugh Wiley and Gen. John J. Garrity, commander-in-chief of the veterans, with other U. S. W. V. officials.

MOBILIZE ALL IN WAR, SAYS LEGION HEAD

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Enactment of legislation providing for a universal draft in time of war should now be the first aim of the American Legion, Edward E. Spafford, retiring national commander, told the tenth annual convention of the World War veterans' organization here today.

"The universal draft," Spafford said, "should do more for peace on earth than anything written on the statute books.

"It should be the first order of business for the American Legion until enacted into law."

Commander Spafford recommended that legionnaires determine the attitude of presidential nominees and of every candidate for Congress on the question of universal draft legislation.

QUIZ CANDIDATES

"Next month," he said, "we will be electing a President and there will be elected 435 Congressmen and 32 Senators. Every one of them should be contacted and their stand on the universal draft should be known by the voters. We must keep the faith and prevent slackers and profiteers."

Under the universal draft, in time of war all citizens would be subject to the draft and civilian occupations would be regulated by the government. Commander Spafford delivered his address late this morning at the opening session of the annual convention. Much of his speech was devoted to the rehabilitation and child welfare work of the legion during the last year. Monetary awards up until June 30, he said, totaled $2,788,301 and more than 23,000 claims were handled by the committee in charge of the work.

Since the entire endowment fund income available for child welfare work is sufficient only to maintain six children in each state, Spafford recommended that the legion devote its attention to furnishing efficient leadership in the work and thus strengthen local efforts to care for the problem created by some 20,000 children of veterans in need of assistance.

In this connection Mr. Spafford stressed the necessity of maintaining efficient workers well grounded in the science of social service, so that the legion might command the respect of other welfare organizations.

Commander Spafford recommended that the savings which the legion has succeeded in accumulating this year be placed in a sinking fund, the principal and interest of which would be untouched for 20 years.

He was especially warm in his praise of the finance administration of the organization and said that for the first time in the history of the legion it would be unnecessary to borrow money to carry the work of the organization over the new year.

Sour Stomach Sign of Carelessness

POLITE society frowns on those whose stomachs "grumble." For careful people heed this warning that the contents of the stomach is sour and fermenting. Those who don't, may some day develop gastritis—or even ulcers.

Nine times out of ten indigestion and allied stomach disorders are due to excess stomach acid, which impedes normal digestion and forms sour gases that cause intense pain. To restore good digestion you must eliminate this cause. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapepsin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders.

SCORES TELL OF HEALING, 150 HIT TRAIL AT BARN

Some 5,000 persons attended both the afternoon and evening services yesterday at Glory Barn, West Carson street, to hear John W. Sproul, soldier evangelist. One hundred and fifty persons professed conversion at the afternoon gathering and 200 others went forward last night.

Several score also declared they had been helped through faith healing.

Samuel McClean, 18, of 4234 Stanley street, who said he had been regarded as a "hopeless cripple" because of a fractured knee, ran around the Glory Barn after he had gone forward and prayed with Mr. Sproul.

Twelve-year-old Peter Johnson, 1311 West Carson street, who said he had been unable to speak or hear since an attack of scarlet fever several years ago, cried "Praise the Lord." He also returned to the platform when Mr. Sproul called his name.

Mr. Sproul announced that beginning tomorrow there would be services at 10:30 a. m. daily, except Sunday, when afternoon and evening services will be held. The additional services are for those who have been unable to attend at night. The nightly services continue. No service is held at all on Mondays.

Speaking on "The Work of the Holy Spirit," yesterday afternoon, Mr. Sproul said:

"Jesus Christ, God's son, was born of the Holy Ghost. Like Christ, the Christian is born of God. Not by making good resolutions, nor in your own strength, but by virtue of Divine Life received is the soul saved.

"Jesus overcame temptation through the power of the Holy Spirit. The Christian thus follows Christ to victory over sin. Jesus was anointed for His work by the Holy Ghost. He went about doing good and healing in the power of the Spirit. He said: 'Greater works shall ye do.' The same Spirit will equip Christion workers to repeat Jesus' deeds of mercy.

"St. Paul wrote: 'That if the spirit that raised Christ from the dead dwell in you, He will quicken your mortal bodies.' The spirit-filled Christian may ask and receive from the risen Christ new physical life and healing of disease."

The sermon last night was on "The Return of Christ to Earth." It follows, in part:

"The second coming must have been regarded by God as very portant—since one verse out of 25 in the New Testament is devoted to this theme; and yet so many regard the preacher of this doctrine as a hare-brained fanatic.

"Human language is unequal to description of the glory that awaits us. To the unprepared, the coming of Jesus will be one of the greatest tragedies. Jesus spoke of a 'great tribulation' that would accompany His return. Eight times more is said about His second coming than about his first. This much-neglected and despised truth is our only message of comfort for the morrow.

"This event is not something to dread; rather it is the blessed hope of the church. The closing prayer of the Bible is 'Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly.'"

4 MORE AGENCIES SEEK TO JOIN PGH. WELFARE FUND

Pittsburgh's community plan for financing its philanthropies is growing. With the progress of the preparations for the county-wide campaign, November 12 to 22, when 10,000 persons will be engaged in the canvass for funds, four additional social service agencies have asked for admission in the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh.

Horace F. Baker, chairman of the applications committee of the Welfare Fund, has called a meeting for early this week to consider the new applications. It is expected that at least 25 organizations will be included when the campaign gets under way. Upon the report of Mr. Baker's committee the board of directors of the Welfare Fund will be asked for action on the applications.

The annual roll call of the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Red Cross this year will be conducted as a part of the Welfare Fund canvass, and the other organizations will share alike in the work, and the friends of these organizations, it is pointed out, will assist in the canvass.

FIVE DEAD IN COLLISION AT DETROIT

International News Service.

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—Police today are seeking to establish the identity of a young man and woman killed with three other persons when two airplanes collided over a flying field here yesterday. Three of them were burned beyond recognition.

The dead are: Capt. Clement W. Brown, 32, president of the Aero Coupe Manufactuging Company of Detroit; Miss Marjorie Yuill, 27, of Vanderbilt, Mich., fiancee of Brown; Russell J. Paulger, 33, and an unidentified young man and woman flying with Paulger.

The accident occurred, witnesses said, shortly after Paulger had taken off from Burns Field. Paulger's fiancee, Miss Dorothy French, was waiting for him at the airport and witnessed the crash.

Capt. Brown, flying a cabin biplane manufactured by his own company, had taken off from the National Guard flying field at River Rouge Park, and was flying straight into the sun in the opposite direction from that flown by Paulger.

He apparently did not see Paulger's ship, which was climbing. Paulger evidently saw the cabin plane, but too late to avoid the crash.

TWO GIRLS KILLED

DENVER, Oct. 8.—Two young women are dead and a student airplane pilot is fighting for his life in a hospital here today as the result of an airplane crash yesterday two miles west of Derby.

The dead are: Miss Mary Begole, 23, popular Denver society girl, and amateur aviatrix, and her 19-year old sister, Carroll.

ONE DEAD AT CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 8.—One man was killed and one injured when the airplane in which they were flying went into a nose dive 100 feet from the earth and crashed into a cornfield at the Cincinnati Flying Club Field at Newton, near here, yesterday.

Lovell E. Connely, 30, Cincinnati the pilot, was killed. Theodore R. Hunter, 28, Medford, president of the club and a student passenger, suffered a fractured skull and physicians held little hope for his recovery.

CAPTAIN BURNS and two co-eds rely on Pepsodent to keep smiles brilliant. It is the outstandingly popular dentifrice at college.

Remove the Film:
Teeth Grow Whiter

The new dental way amazes—it combats serious tooth and gum disorders, too

MOVE your tongue over your teeth. You will feel a slippery coating. This is film.

Film is the source, according to highest dental authority, of most serious tooth and gum disorders. It is the cause of cloudy teeth and those believed to be naturally "off color." To remove it a scientific way, Pepsodent is widely urged.

FILM destroys teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth and gums — a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth and gum disorders. Film absorbs the stains from food and smoking and gives that cloudy look. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar (a hardened film deposit), are the chief cause of pyorrhea. To remove film use the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film and easily remove it in gentle safety to enamel.

Don't expect the same results from old-time dentifrices. See for once and all how white teeth really are. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Pepsodent could be sold for less. But it would not embody the costly agents for which science recommends it.

AUTO IN WRECK KILLS WOMAN ON SIDEWALK

When one of two wrecked machines swerved onto the sidewalk where she was standing at Homewood avenue and Bennett street, early yesterday, Miss Helen Weir, 26, of 7325 Hermitage street, was killed. The young woman was on her way home from church.

Robert Craig, 44, of 2030 Montgomery street, and H. R. Britton, 36, Negro, of 3219 Monticello street, drivers of the automobiles, are being held for the coroner.

The accident, police said, occurred when Craig, driving his machine west on Homewood avenue, struck Britton's car, causing the latter to lose control of the wheel. The machine, knocking down Miss Weir, crashed into a window of the jewelry shop of F. P. Ligadalhal, in Bennett street.

Miss Weir died of a fractured skull shortly after she had been admitted to the Pittsburgh Hospital.

196 REWARDED; NEXT PERIOD HALF GONE

Three days remain in which to submit advertisements in competition for the prizes for the second weekly period of the $15,000 Zain Ad-Writing Test that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is conducting. A cash prize of $100 and more than 195 other awards will be given for the best ads that reach the office of this newspaper before midnight on Wednesday, October 10. Those coming in later will be automatically entered for the third weekly period, and so on.

Some of the 196 ads for which prizes were given during the first period are printed in the paper today. Study them. You will see that you, too, can write ads. All you need is a good idea. You do not have to know anything about layout, type or other technical matters. Professional ad writers and newspaper employes are barred.

SPECIAL PRIZES

Note the special prizes that are offered by some of the advertisers. They are in addition to the $15,000 in cash and merchandise prizes that the Sun-Telegraph is offering. Among the latest of the special prizes are those to be given by the Potter Title and Mortgage Guarantee Company, which offers $10 in gold to each writer of the five best ads submitted on their business during the entire Ad-Test, and the Yellow Cab Company, which offers a book of Yellow Cab coupons for the best Yellow Cab ad each period.

Study carefully the rules for writing Zain ads and the list of 39 business concerns about which they must be written. They will be found elsewhere on this page. You must write at least one ad about each of the 39 some time during the campaign to be eligible for the $1,000 grand prize.

Investigate all of the 39. Study their selling points.

In writing about the General Homes Corporation, consider how desirable it is that everyone should own his home. Let your imagination play around the joy there is in being freed from the burden of rent paying. Visit the company's model home at 2439 Brighton road, where you will learn much that you can make use of in writing your ad.

IDEAS APLENTY

You should have no difficulty in thinking up good ideas for an ad about the Haller Baking Company. The bread, rolls and cakes of this concern are famous. They are delivered from the "oven to home," which assures their being fresh. Try some of the Haller products, and note their good qualities.

The Glick Auto Supply Company, 3534-3542 Bigelow boulevard, is featuring United States Royal Tires and Willard Batteries. The toughness of the materials of which these tires are made makes for long life. The reliability of the batteries commends them to the attention of motorists. The low prices at which they are sold is another point to remember.

"There's a store near you." That is the slogan of the P. H. Butler Grocers. There is no better way in which you can get material for your ad about the Butler stores than by visiting one of them and supplying your household needs there. You will find whatever you require, if it belongs in a grocery store.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Write your name and address on the back of each sheet, and also on the flap of your envelope. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Triner's Bitter Wine always effective

Other kinds of physics, purgatives and laxatives lose their potency when their use is continued for even a short time. Triner's Bitter Wine is different. Never gripes or strains but warms the stomach and sharpens the appetite. Potatoes, bread and other starchy foods yield quickly. Try it and compare results. Get a bottle today and take a tablespoonful before each meal. At all druggists—75c and $1.25.

FOREIGN LEGION VETERAN, 'BROKE,' ASKS DEPORTATION

Martin Ullman, 32, soldier of fortune and one-time member of the French Foreign Legion, is tired of his wanderings and wants to return to his native country, Latvia.

Upon his own request, Carnegie police last night detained him. They will turn him over to immigration authorities for investigation. He said he had entered this country illegally.

Police say that Ullman told them he had served in the British army in Northern Russia, four years in the Russian army, a half year in the Latvian army and five years in the French Foreign Legion. Papers in his possession substantiate his story, police say.

Ullman said he had come to America from Balboa, Spain, arriving in Nova Scotia. He then went to Montreal and Detroit, deserting the ship. He came to Pittsburgh, arriving yesterday with $6 in his pockets.

PGH. FIRMS TEAMSTERS FINED $184 FOR CRUELTY

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—Fines and costs totaling $184 were imposed here on 12 teamsters employed by the Ferguson-Edmondson Contracting Company, of Pittsburgh, on charges of cruelty to animals. The charges were preferred by W. C. Ivill, of Pittsburgh, an agent for the Western Pennsylvania Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Ivill charged that the animals were being worked with sore shoulders and other skin abrasions. The fines were imposed by Justice of the Peace Edward R. Patterson. The company is grading for the Chartiers Southern Railway near Waynesburg.

ESCAPING BOYS WRECK CAR

Wrecking an automobile in which they had escaped from the boy's detention home at Thorn Hill Friday night, three youths were captured near Carnegie and returned to the home late yesterday.

The machine, police say, had been stolen in Burgettstown. The boys are Harry Kline, 17; Joseph Nordic, 15 and James Durbin, 15, a Negro, all of Pittsburgh. The Durbin boy suffered a fractured ankle in the wreck.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy Cascaret.

Cascarizing the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional Cascaret will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this; what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents; because children love to take a Cascaret. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another Cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't Cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives?

Flat Curly Furs

Are Much Featured on Many of the Newest Coats

THERE is no set rule to follow on the road to chic, but one of the smartest and surest routes is to select a coat with fur trimming of Caracul, Persian Lamb or a kindred fur with a flat curly surface. This trend is reflected in the three illustrations above, which prove that one need not be expensively dressed to be correctly and smartly attired, if her choosing is done at Jonasson's.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL EVENTS

Busy Season Ahead for Social World

DINNER DANCE :-: IRWIN BRIDE

MRS. D. C. TAYLOR

Mrs. Duane C. Taylor is president of the Pittsburgh Assembly No. 47, Social Order of the Beauceant, which will hold a dinner dance and card party next Monday night in the Hotel Roosevelt. Mrs. Charles A. Hedges is general social chairman.

MRS. P. H. MILLER

Mrs. Paul H. Miller was Miss Margaret S. Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cunningham, Irwin, before her marriage, solemnized in Hotel Schenley. They will live in Mt. Lebanon.

Busy Season Ahead For Social World

VERY early in the season, or really before the season had begun, it looked as though this were surely going to be a quiet season. Most folks accepted the prospect, remembering that seldom does an autumn and early winter, filled with many events, follow such a brilliant season as everyone enjoyed last year. But gradually party after party has been announced, until those few who might have liked the respite of a quiet winter at home are going to be disappointed.

Despite the small number of buds in contrast to last year—so far the list numbers 19—this is going to be a "debutanteish" season as well as a busy one. Right up through the holiday season the girls who will make their bows will be flitting from one part to another. A new bud—the nineteenth—has just been announced, Elizabeth Reed Orr, daughter of the A. Hamilton Orrs, of Stanton avenue. Mrs. Orr will present her daughter at a luncheon on November 16 in the Twentieth Century Club.

ONE affair for the buds is being given today. Mrs. Samuel Alfred McClung is the hostess at the event, a luncheon in her home in honor of Elizabeth McCullough, debutante daughter of the William T. McCulloughs, of Bennington avenue. Covers are laid for 25, and most of the guests, of course, are buds of the season. And ophelia roses are used in decorating.

* * *

MRS. M'CLUNG will soon be hostess at another event of interest to the social world, and this time not for a bud. The McClungs will give a dinner dance Friday evening, November 2, in their home for their nephew and niece, the John B. Sellers. Of course you remember that before her wedding Mrs. Sellers was Elizabeth Wightman Mellon, daughter of the Thomas Alexander Mellons.

BUT to return to entertainments for the debutantes, another debbie affair of the month will be a luncheon Mrs. Shirley Plumer Austin, of Kentucky avenue, will give October 17 in the Twentieth Century Club for Louise Evans, daughter of the Henry Oliver Evanses, and Marian Stone, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Stephen Stone, who will make their bows to the social world this winter. Marian is a sister of Mrs. Austin, you know.

On Tuesday afternoon, October 16, Mrs. Albert Horne Burchfield, Jr., and her sister, Florence Wainwright, who came out last year, will give a bridge in the home of their mother, Mrs. Harris W. Wainwright, Jr., of Beechwood boulevard, for their sister, Harriet, Jane Allderdice and Betty McCullough, all debbies.

PERHAPS nothing delights the heart of a young girl so much as a dance, and this season there are to be a number of balls.

The Frank Scott Willocks, of Sewickley, will give a dance in the Pittsburgh Club on the day after Christmas for their debutante daughter, Virginia Willock.

And another holiday dance, to be preceded by a dinner, will be given by the James Edward Lewises, of Aylesboro avenue, on December 29 in the Longue Vue Country Club for all the buds of the season. And the gust of honor will be Rhoda Gamble, daughter of the William K. Gambles, of Oakmont.

I'VE already mentioned, I believe, that the Stephen Stones will give a dance in the University Club on December 28 for their debutante daughter, Marian. The A. Wilson McCandlesses, of Beechwood boulevard, will give a dinner for Marian before the dance.

* * *

ONE by one, last year's debutantes are announcing plans for events of even greater importance than their coming-out parties. I mean their weddings, of course, and the latest to tell her friends of her engagement is Mary Elizabeth McMahon, daughter of the H. R. McMahons, of "Lombardy," Coraopolis Heights. Her father and mother have just announced her betrothal to Russell D. L. Wirth, of Millwaukee, son of A. L. Wirth.

* * *

MISS REBECCA HEINZ, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heinz, of Eastern avenue, Aspinwall, whose marriage to Dr. Harry Lytle, son of Joseph Lytle, of Aspinwall, will be solemnized Wednesday, October 17, will have her sister, Miss Helen Heinz, for her maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be another sister, Miss Elizabeth Heinz, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred Heinz. Barbara Lou Heinz, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heinz, will be flower girl, and the page will be Frederick Schuster, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schuster, of Riverview avenue. Charles Lytle will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will include Fred Heinz, Charles Heinz, Jr., Daniel M. Evans and Joseph McKenzie, all of Aspinwall. The ceremony will be performed at 7:30 o'clock in the Heinz home. The rehearsal dinner will be given the night before the wedding in the Wildwood Country Club, by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bokerman, uncle and aunt of the bride.

INVITATIONS have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Add Harvie Leitch, of Terrace avenue, for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Helen Elizabeth Leitch, of Terrace avenue, and Harold Edwin Searle, of New York, which will take place Thursday, October 18, at 7:30 o'clock in the First United Presbyterian Church. Miss Vera Searle, of Windsor, Ontario, sister of the bridegroom, will be maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Trevanian Roxbrough, Miss Dorothy Bergman, Miss Catherine Kohne and Miss Janet Hill, of this city. Four small nieces of the bride will be flower girls, including Helen Gilmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Gilmore, and Jeanne, Dorothy and Elnore Leitch, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Leitch. George Kramer Leitch, another brother of the bride, will be best man and the ushers will include Harold E. Deitrich, of Chicago; Jules Labarthe, Dr. Gebhard Stegeman, and Trevanian Roxbrough, of Pittsburgh; Paul D. Gebhart, of New York, and George H. Roberts, of Easton. A reception in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association annex will follow the ceremony. Several parties are being given for Miss Leitch, among them a luncheon on Saturday at which Mrs. John O. Gilmore was hostess. On Thursday, Mrs. J. Lawrence Hunter, of Bellevue, will entertain at luncheon in McCreery's and on Saturday, Mrs. Roxbrough will give a bridge party at her home in Brookline boulevard. Miss Bergman entertained for Miss Leitch September 22.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Catharine Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Williams, of State College, Pa., and John F. Rankin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Rankin, of Mt. Lebanon, which was solemnized last Monday at State College by the Rev. John F. Harkins. The bride is a member of the senior class at State College and Mr. Rankin was graduated from the same school in 1927. He is a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

LEO B. BURNS, of Walnut street, announces the marriage of his sister, Miss Regina Burns, and Richard Elliot, of Shaw avenue, Squirrel Hill, which was solemnized Saturday in the rectory of St. Paul's Cathedral. Mr. Elliot is a son of Senator and Mrs. David Elliot, of Colorado Springs, Col.

* * *

MISS ROSE L. ZEIDER, Pittsburgh dancer, is visiting her mother Mrs. B. Zeider, of Phillips avenue, Squirrel Hill.

BOGGS & BUHL

furniture week features style

—as well as lowness in prices

Primarily, if you will, a sale—and a sale on a big scale, the entire stock included. But, above all that, a showing of modern "style right" furniture—suites and pieces that have been selected with first thought to quality standards—and a distinctiveness that stamps this as a pre-eminent display of authentic and correct furniture.

The model illustrated is the latest arrival. An off-the-face creation with a novel treatment in the back—lines of becoming chic—$15.

tailored perfection with the Mallory distinction at $15

Wherever the names of good milliners are known, the Mallory hat has strong fashion significance. Smart Pittsburghers buy their Mallory hats at Boggs & Buhl, this city's exclusive agency.

Mallory hats are fashioned of the finest, supple French and imported felt and soleil velour—their lines the expression of an artistic genius that is thoroughly modern. Head sizes 6½ to 8.

Other Mallory Hats, $12 to $18.50

fashionable dress patterns only at Boggs & Buhl

Fashionable dress patterns have many outstanding merits—one of which is that every size is individually designed. No pattern is cut in a larger or smaller size by a mechanical process—but each size must be correct for the proportions to its figure.

In other words, if you choose a model size 36 and your size happens to be 42, you won't find your size in that particular model unless that model can be made up just as smartly with as good lines as the average 36. When you make garments over Fashionable Dress Patterns you are assured the correct, smart thing—and at no more cost.

Yes! Brownies Are Real

Do you remember the lovely old tales how the Brownies used to come into one's home, unseen and unheard, and do all the household drudgery for some poor distraught Mother? How we thrilled to their kind helpfulness.

Today!

You may have at your beck and call all the Brownies you wish. They will sweep for you, wash and iron your clothes, polish your floors, cook for you, keep your food cool and pure, and yes, even make ice for you.

All you have to do is provide the outlets for them to come from and the tools with which they may work.

We will gladly tell you how you may have these Brownies work for you.

Correct Apparel Pays a Man Dividends

Why does he always look so neat—just as if he had walked out of the store in a new suit?

Perhaps it is because he buys his clothes from a store which knows how to fit his clothes to his build, his personality, and his personal characteristics.

The J. G. Bennett Company, besides handling only the better grades of clothing for men, has a store personnel who are experts in the selection of wearing apparel. They will gladly offer you suggestions in the discriminating choice of your clothing.

Of course, the better our salespeople become acquainted with you, the more nearly they can come to fitting you properly. Make their acquaintance. Come in to see us often. Assure yourself of the profits obtained through correct dress.

WHEN WASHDAY IS PLAYDAY—MOTHER'S USING GAINADAY

Monday washday—the dreaded day, is playday when Gainaday is used.

Mother need not fear those monstrous washings. What with Baby's cute little rompers and play clothes that get SO dirty, Sister's dainty frocks and underthings that just won't stand pulls and strains, Junior's shirts that get so grimy on collars and cuffs, and Papa's apparel that must be snow-white, or else—but then Mother doesn't worry or fret. She puts all these things, from the daintiest to the roughest and heaviest, into Gainaday.

The gentle, insistent flushing of the soapy water through the moving clothes by the three baffles in the Gainaday tub, makes the most stubborn dirt lose its courage and surrender to Gainaday.

Mother knows—that Washday is Playday—that she gains a day—by using Gainaday.

Good Candies, like "Good People," are few and far apart, but personal experience has taught me that when you purchase Candies from a reliable source you get pureness added with knowledge in the art of candy making all for the same price (and, in many cases, far cheaper) than if you buy something named candy at "jist enny old place." REYMERS' has the good reputation of satisfying the most critical judge of eatable candies, and should always be given the FIRST chance of proving this to you. Therefore,

ENJOY THE WINTER
Heat By Gas

Winter has been the joy of children and the despair of their parents ever since we can remember. The invigorating temperature, the beauty of snow-covered landscapes, and the homely cheer of warm, cozy rooms frequently lose their appeal at the time when a man buys the home which should protect him from the elements. The atmosphere and snow, contaminated by coal dust, remind him of the tyrannical furnace at home which holds over his head the horror of frozen water pipes as a penalty for neglect, and he enviously turns his thoughts westward to winterless California. He dreams of uninterrupted evenings of leisure, of laws effectively abolishing bleak, shivery mornings, of ways and means of breaking the bonds of frozen-pipe-slavery.

This man is our prospective customer. In the homes of his friends he will see his dream realized. Next winter he will heat by gas.

BUS FARES UP EARLY IN STUDY

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

The first meeting of the transportation committee of the Allied Boards of Trade will be held tomorrow, C. V. Shoup, chairman, announced on his return to Pittsburgh.

A vigorous course of action is being planned which will include the investigation of every angle of the street car and bus situation.

Mr. Shoup, during a week's absence form Pittsburgh, has visited Cleveland and other cities and has made studies of bus operations at those points. Special attention of the committee will be directed towards the 25-cent bus fare which comparison with other localities has shown to be unparalleled.

"The committee's work will be entirely a community movement," said Mr. Shoup. "None of the members of the committee has any personal interest in the matter. They will work entirely from an unprejudiced standpoint. Politics will not enter into the investigation.

"In view of the disclosures about the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company any civic body which did not take action would be failing in its duty," said Mr. Shoup.

"The investigation will cover three angles of the transportation situation. The relations of the Public Service Commission to the Railways Company will be studied. A survey will be made from an engineering standpoint. The financial and economic status of the problem will also be considered."

BURY G. W. RYAN HERE TODAY

Spike M. E. Attack on Smith

A resolution assailing the Democratic nominee for President, and attacking Tammany as a "Slinking Tiger and snake in the grass," presented by the committee on temperance, prohibition and public morals, was almost unanimously rejected at the concluding sessions today of the Pittsburgh Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, held in McKeesport.

A few minutes previously the conference had adopted another resolution urging Methodists to vote for Hoover as against Smith, over the protest of the Rev. Dr. George Brenneman, pastor of the Smithfield Street Church, who declared politics should have no place in the church. He pleaded in vain that the names of the candidates be deleted.

The conference temperance board's resolution did not name Gov. Smith as the nominee of the Democratic party, but stated that "in spite of famous names that had been on the roster of his party from George Washington to Woodrow Wilson, he had stabbed its ideals in the back." The resolution referred to the Democratic candidate as "suggesting the return of the time when men would stand 'on brass rails and blow frothy foam.'

REPORT SENT BACK

"We can't underwrite this report because it is undignified and not the sort of a message that should come from a body such as this," was the gist of objections made by several ministers. It finally was referred to a committee.

The resolution adopted recites that "For 40 years Methodism has proclaimed to the world the conviction of her people that the liquor traffic cannot be licensed without sin. Joining heart and hand with multiplied millions of our fellow citizens of like mind, we did our humble bit to write prohibition into the constitution and statutes of our Republic."

The resolution decried afforts to bring back the saloon and "a system of license possessed of seven more devils than the old saloon ever had."

Dr. Brenneman's attempt to have the names of Hoover and Smith stricken from the resolution met with little support, not more than half a dozen ministers voting with him on his motion to revise the resolution.

OPPOSE TAX

Strong opposition developed to the proposed sliding scale tax on higher salaried ministers to aid those receiving less than $1,800 a year. On motion of the Rev. Dr. B. F. Crawford, of Dormont, the report of a special committee on custentation was referred back to it. A motion to assess all ministers, irrespective of salary, one half of one per cent of their yearly salary, was then considered.

Advocates of the substitute plan stated it would raise about $3,500 yearly in the conference and while it would not prove a final solution, it would be a beginning and revision could be had later.

Assignment of ministers by Bishop Herbert Welch was expected to be announced late today.

Hill's Lid Kept on By Hoey

An alleged attempt to open disorderly houses in the Hill district Saturday night was stopped by police under Inspector James Hoey whose series of raids brought 44 cases into Morals court.

Six jersons were held for court by Magistrate A. D. Brandon, who fined another alleged operator $50 and held two others for further investigation.

Already under indictment for violating the Snyder act, police say, Molly Jacobs, of 208 Elem street, was held for court on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. A woman inmate also was held.

James Kelly, proprietor of the Strand Hotel, Sixth street, downtown, was held for court on a statutory charge.

MAY ASK PASTOR'S TRANSFER

While leaders of the Methodist Episcopal Church in session at McKeesport were ignoring their exclusion from the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church in Wilkinsburg, members of the Calleder Men's Bible Class held their second outdoor service yesterday.

Barred from using the Sunday School rooms, members of the class met on the church steps and conducted their usual service.

The class members have been at odds with the Rev. Sheridan Watson Bell, pastor, and members of the official board, since the removal of Dr. T. Morton Sankey, as class teacher.

It was rumored yesterday among the churchgoers that delegates at the conference in session at McKeesport would ask to have Dr. Bell transferred to another pastorate.

At his bedside were his beautiful wife, Dorothy Dwan, motion picture star, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Nancy Smith.

Death was due to pneumonia, which, in turn, developed from a nervous breakdown suffered by the comedian last August.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

BILLY BRYANT, who will tie up his showboat at Elizabeth, Pa., in another week for the winter season, is planning to write a play of river life, which will be a sort of companion piece to the book on the same theme written by Edna Ferber. Mr. Bryant should know something about river life. The family was born to the river. Bill'ys father, Sam Bryant, had a showboat 25 years ago. He hauled the boat, personally, by rope, along the banks of the Monongahela. Once the boat was docked, the elder Bryant pitched a tent on the riverbank and then gave a show to the customers assembled.

In the Bryant show-boat troupe the old song that says: "Everybody works but father," fits the case except that father also works. Billy Bryant is the leading man; his father sells tickets; Billy's wife besides selling tickets plays the calliope and then when the play begins takes her place in the orchestra to play the piano overture. She is assisted in the orchestra by a drummer who after the overture hustles back stage to make up for whatever part he is to play on the stage. Recently the drummer has been playing the lover part in "The Gorilla."

BETWEEN acts the cast offers bits of vaudeville. Little Betty Bryant, aged 6, who upon being asked how long she has been on the stage promptly answers: "Only six years," does imitations of George Cohan, a Bryant benefactor. Billy's mother recites. Other members have specialties. One specialist is a contortionist. He, however, did not join the cast as a contortionist. This talent was discovered only after he had been engaged as a dishwasher. He still washes dishes, contorting in his spare time.

* * *

The auditorium part of the boat seats 500 persons; it has a balcony and two boxes. The stage is small; the curtain is raised and lowered by hand and rope; the orchestra pit has sufficient room for one fat and one lean musician. Between acts while certain members of the cast are doing specialties, other members, notably Betty Bryant and the man who plays the title part in "The Gorilla" sell candy.

* * *

THE audiences are nearly always appreciative, but sometimes over-enthusiastic. Sometimes the customers make too much noise. Others disturb the actors by tossing peanuts and pennies about somewhat recklessly. The actors have learned how to check these nuisances. They glare long and hard at the chief offender, thus wilting him.

* * *

One evening recently, when the cast was being read aloud from the stage, in lieu of programs, a character was called Molly McInnis. By a coincidence a real Molly McInnis was in the audience and the real Molly McInnis jumped from her seat and shouted: "Hey, quit that."

* * *

IN SPITE of great difficutlies, the Bryant showboat enjoyed a great season. Mr. Bryant obtained from his old friend, George Cohan, the river rights to "Broadway Jones," which he improved upon, by turning the straight comedy into a musical comedy. It was such a good idea that Mr. Cohan now plans to use Bryant's idea on Broadway this season. In honor of the originator of the idea, Mr. Cohan will call the musical version of "Broadway Jones," "Billy."

* * *

It seems here that Mr. Bryant might spend a profitable week at the local wharf. After having read William Pfarr's feature story in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph and after having looked over the notes submitted by Mr. Pfarr to this department, from which this column was written, we believe there would be a large number of Pittsburgh theatrical fans who would attend a week's showing of anything the Bryant family would produce on its showboat.

10-CENT MUSTACHES WORTH $14 IN TAXICAB'S HOLDUP

Wearing slick black mustachios that can be purchased for a dime, two youths fooled F. J. Sabel, 29,, of 2008 Center avenue, a cab driver, into believing he was driving his fares to a Hallow'en party when he took them from Dithridge street to Wilkinsburg Saturday night.

Upon reaching Celeron street the youths drew revolvers and relieved Sabel of $14.

Police have issued a warning for the public to beware of similar tricks.

PLEADS GUILTY TO MURDER

Felix Sims, 40, Negro, of Crawford street, pleaded guilty to murder today when arraigned before Visiting Judge C. T. Copeland, of Westmoreland county, for causing the death of Richard Brown, 41, of Colwell street, March 26 last. The court fixed the degree at voluntary manslaughter, sentenced Sims to serve from one to two years in the penitentiary, and dated his commitment back to March 26, the day Brown died. Sims pushed Brown, and in falling the latter struck his head on a curb stone.

WOMEN RUSHING (ABOVE) TO SEVEN-CENT BUSSES

Chicago women today are rushing to use the new seven-cent bus lines and have boycotted the old 10-cent coaches. They also stormed the "loop" in protesting. The Chicago surface lines have been fighting for the right to run feeder lines with a free transfer to street cars. The struggle for franchises has resulted in an upheaval in the city administration. What would these women do if they lived in Pittsburgh and had to pay 25 cents?

Will Rogers Says

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8.

Hoover spoke Saturday, but he didn't answer any of Al's questions. He acted like he hadn't read 'em.

On the stage we call the man that asks questions the "straight" man and the one that answers them the "comedian." I guess Herb figures, "Well, you are going to make no comedian out of me."

If St. Louis is as big a surprise in politics as they were in baseball, I look for the state to go for me on the Anti-Bunk platform.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

STOLEN LOVE by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Joan's Aunts See Decided Change in Her Since She Met Bill

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, 17 and beautiful, lives a secluded life with her two old maiden aunts in a house long run to seed. Aunt Evvie, discovering that Joan has visited a dance hall, angrily reveals to her the story of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan, alone in her room, clasps to her heart a miniature of her mother and refuses to believe she was anything but good. Aunt Evvie buys a cheap automobile and engages Bill Martin, a garage worker, one day a week to care for it. Bill, looking up from his work, sees Joan waching him from her window. Later Bill and Joan meet and fall in love with each other.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"VERONICA all over again!" she thought bitterly. "And grown up—grown up like a mushroom over night!"

When 9 o'clock had come and Joan had closed her books and gone to bed, Evvie turned to Babe, who was sewing on a white canton flannel nightgown destined for the Foreign Missions' Christmas box.

"We'll have to do something with Joan," she said decisively.

"Haven't I always said—"

"Oh, yes, you said a lot, but there wasn't much point in it before. She's growing up so fast. I don't know as I want the responsibility. Do you suppose Cousin Belle would take her? A school like Belle's is what Joan needs, and she could help Belle in some ways."

"But think of the fare to Philadelphia, sister? Why it would cost—"

"Belle ought to pay it. She probably would. It would pay her in the end. I believe I'll write—"

Upstairs Joan leaned out of her window in the moonlight. There was a little ghost of a smile on her lips, but her eyes were heavy. Heavy for sleep, and yearning for Bill. Bill who had kissed her, and put his strong brown arm protectingly about her shoulders.

On the road, the other side of the hedge, a boy passed, whistling. He had walked up from the hollow just to pass by the house.

It was quite dark in the old Van Fleet place.

"Guess she's in bed by now." The whistling grew fainter, blew away on the salt wind.

Aunt Evvie's letter went rushing on its way, and spring, who knows no letters, went leisurely about hers.

Tender, green leaves, pale and new, made a delicate lace canopy through which you could look up and see the azure sky and the big white clouds drifting over the old orchard. The hills teemed with wild flowers. The green waters of the bay, specked with white foam, sparkled in the sun and the little boats anchored there bobbed joyously up and down.

It was all new to Joan—all the old familiar sights and sounds, and smells of Sausalito in spring—because she was sharing it with Bill. And when the big yellow moon rode low in the sky, and the lanterns on the little boats over Belvedere way glowed like fireflies in the night, the beauty was almost more than she could bear. If only she could put out her hand and touch him—know that he was loving it all, too— There must be a way—they must find a way to meet at nights, too.

At first it was enough to meet on Wednesday afternoons, when the two old ladies had gone primly into town, and he came to wash Auntie Evvie's car. Enough to stand near, and talk about anything. To smile at each other wordlessly, and find funny little excuses to touch each other's hand or hair.

They were both so young and inexperienced. Even tall Bill who lounged around the docks, and liked a fight now and then.

He didn't intend to do odd jobs all his life. He told her about his dreams, shyly at first, more confidently and fluently later.

"You see, I had to be out of school so much. Dad died when I was a little shaver. I had to work some, so I always seemed kind of overgrown when I got back to school. Didn't fit in with the rest, somehow. So I was glad when I got through. You might not think it's much to work in a garage."

"Oh I do—I do—"

"Well, your aunts wouldn't," he amended reasonably. "But I'm learning the business. After I learn it—"

She drew a little nearer, her lovely sensitive face all aglow. "What then—what are you going to do then—"

He didn't know, and he hated himself for not knowing. "Oh—quit, I guess. I'm kind of no account, I guess—"

"Oh no—no you aren't."

"You don't understand," he burst awkwardly. "You—oh well—you're different. "We're so dog-gone poor. Ma and I—and my sister and her husband live with us, and the three kids—"

"Oh, but we're poor, too!" Joan's eyes were shining. She was glad she was poor, too, so that Bill wouldn't mind being poor alone. "You don't know how poor we are. Why, our roof leaks terribly. The whole third story is awful in winter. Mrs. Heeley and I have to put wash basins, and buckets and everything out to catch the rain, and the wall paper is all peeling off—"

He looked up at the big house, with its yellow turrets reaching affluently skyward, and shook his head. "That's not the same. It's a different kind of poor we are. You don't know—"

"Yes, I do. I know where you live. In the little white house down in the hollow—"

"Near the fishery," he finished defiantly, "and the old saloons—"

"I don't care. I'd as soon live there as our house!"

"Johnnie—you wouldn't!"

It was the first time he had called her that. Her very finger tips were tingling. "Yes, I would!"

And then the gate creaked, there was a scuffling along the gravel walk—Aunt Evvie and Aunt Babe coming home. There was barely time for Joan to scamper up the back stairs before Evvie's latch key turned in the front door. It was always that way. Somebody was always interrupting them.

Once he held her hands tight. "Suppose I won't let you go?" he teased.

She smiled back at him, but her clear dark eyes were serious. "Sometimes I wish you wouldn't," she said.

In his saner moments, counting out the money for the butcher bill, or putting up a new clothes line for his mother, he knew that it was all wrong.

"Lord, I must have been crazy. A Van Fleet—and me. Ye gods! She's just a fool kind—stringing me along, I guess. I guess she wouldn't ever care for a fellow like me."

And then he couldn't rest until he had seen her again. "Just this once," he would think. "I'll see her this once, and I'll kind of let her know that it's no good, and we'd better cut it out before her aunts find out and have a fit."

"I suppose I'll be clearing out of here before very long—going over to the city," he said guardidly, one afternoon.

She nodded. "I s'pose so."

"No oportunities much here—"

"No—"

A feeling of utter desolation swept over him. "You don't care!" he cried sharply.

"Oh—but I didn't thing—I didn't think you meant—that you wouldn't come back—" The words fairly tumbled out of her aching throat. "Bill—you didn't mean, not to see me any more?"

He turned his head about "Best thing that could happen to you—"

Swiftly her arms twined round him. She was clinging to him with all her strength. "No—no—" she panted. "It wouldn't be. And besides, I won't give you up—ever" Her lips, incredibly soft and red met his. "I won't give you up—ever!"

With Joan's kisses sweet on his lips, and her honest eyes, clear and green as the sea, promising, Bill made one last lame effort.

"Gee—it would be years before I could—marry anybody. I'd have to clear out for a while first and get a job. I haven't even got the price of a brass ring!"

She kissed him again. "I wouldn't care!"

Slowly they got to their feet. The sun was setting. "I'll have to hurry!" she said. They looked at each other and laughed delightedly. They were hardly moving, they were walking so slowly, but the Van Fleet hedge seemed running to meet them—they were so soon.

"Good-bye—dear!"

"Good-bye!" The word was a caress.

Joan floated into the kitchen. She was walking on air. Mrs. Heeley was mashing potatoes, and her head was tied up in a red plaid shawl. A sign that her temper and neuralgia were at their worst, but Joan was blind to bad signs.

She began to cut bread in a beatific daze.

"I said," Heeley was shouting now. Joan had to hear her. "I said your Aunt Evvie was waitin' in the library to see you. She got a letter about you today, and if I was you, I wouldn't keep her waiting."

CHAPTER V.

"DID you want me, Aunt Evvie?" Joan was still walking on air. Not even the thought of Aunt Evvie's possible displeasure, could penetrate the warm dream in which she moved.

"Bill loves me—Bill loves me—" It was a kind of litany repeating itself in her heart.

But Aunt Evvie wasn't displeased. Now that she was going to be rid of Joan once and forever, she felt a glow of something like affection for her. "After all, she's been a good girl, considering how pretty she is. It might have been worse," she thought. And aloud she said, "Yes—I just heard from Cousin Belle. She's sent the money for you to go to Philadelphia."

"Philadelphia! Way back East—why Aunt Evvie!"

Joan couldn't believe it. Sausalito, with occasional visits to San Rafael, and still rarer trips to San Francisco—had been her world. To think of going to Philadelphia!

"Boarding school," Aunt Evvie continued. "Cousin Belle conducts a very fine school for young ladies. You'll be expected to help any way you can—"

The Juggler -:- By Fanny Darrell

© 1928 by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

O-O-O-O-H! She's found a new sport! And SUCH a fascinating one too! She's discovered that her hands are quite adept when it comes to the art of juggling, so she's practicing with all the poor little hearts that have been laid at her dainty feet.

Look at them! She gathers them up in her cruel little hands and throws them every which way. Juggles them all around until the poor hearts are so dizzy! And she laughs! One by one she drops them and breaks them to bits!

But just wait! Someday someone will take her heart and play with it awhile before casting it aside! She won't be so happy over that I'm sure. And it will serve her right! Cupid has no patience with those who play with his hearts. They're precious possessions and should always be treated carefully. So if you seek love, don't be a juggler. Remember that turn about is fair play!

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Madge Knits the Raveled Past With the Present

ALLAN DRAKE looked keenly at my father as the older man warned him that the car in which they had come to the farmhouse must be hidden immediately.

"All right, sir," he answered. "But you must lie down first."

"Couch just a few steps away in the library," Lillian said, and in another minute my father had been half lifted, half led into the room and made comfortable on the couch.

"Stay with him, Madge," Lillian said, "and I'll get Jim for Allen."

My father lay with closed eyes until they had gone. Then he opened them and all the great love which is his for me shone out of them.

"Darling girl!" he said. "This sight of you pays for everything. I was afraid—"

He checked himself, but I knew intuitively what the rest of the sentence was. He had feared that this mysterious journey of his would end in another voyage into the infinite without his seeing me again.

With a sudden little dread clutching at my heart, I wondered if it would have been better for his happiness if he had not come back. He had gone away in answer to a mysterious summons before Grace Draper's treachery and suicide had set a gulf of bitterness between Dicky and me. To a degree unusual even with doting parents, my father's happiness was wrapped up in me, because of his remorse for his desertion of my mother when I was 4 years old, and his subsequent separation from me during all the years of my childhood and girlhood. Indeed, it was not until after my marriage, that my father, known to Broadway as "The Quester," because of his mysterious waiting watchful attitude in every public place, as if he expected some time to see a long-missing face, finally recognized me because of my resemblance to my mother.

I had forgiven him because of my mother's dying request that I should do so if he ever found me, and his devotion to me since that time had been a marvelous thing. His affection for Dicky was strong, and I knew that he was contented in the thought that my marriage was happier than that of the average woman. If he should find out the truth—I made a quick, fierce little vow to myself that I would guard every action, every word, act the role of happy wife during every minute of my father's stay.

"You mustn't talk," I told him, my arms clasping him closely. "Just rest. You're with me, now, dearest, and I'm going to take care of you until you're well and strong again."

Feebly he drew my face down to his and kissed it.

"Always my Margaret," he said fondly, and then he lay quietly, his head pillowed against my arm. But his eyes were open, watchful and I guessed that he was listening for any possible disturbance from outside.

It was but a few minutes, however, before Allen Drake and Lillian appeared. From under my eyelashes I shot a keen glance at my friend and saw that though her face held its usual inscrutability there were etched around her mouth the deep lines which only strong excitement brings. Allen Drake had found time to tell her of their reason for coming to the farmhouse with such secrecy, I was sure of that.

"Couldn't be better, chief!" Mr. Drake said cheerily. "Car is in the barn completely hidden under the hay, and Jim has sworn not to open that section of the barn unless one of us is with him. So you can go to sleep with a mind at rest. I am sure nobody but ourselves knows that we are here."

But during the next hour while we were seeing that the travelers were comfortably settled in their rooms and serving them a hot supper, I could not get out of my mind the query that later in my own room I put to Lillian:

"Do you suppose those Transvanians in the shack could have seen father and Mr. Drake come to the farmhouse?"

Purchasing Cutlery

When buying cutlery do not forget to give some thought to the handle as well as to the blade. Select a handle that is easy to hold and is well fastened to the blade. Keep the knives in a partitioned drawer lined with baize to safeguard the sharpened blades.

HOW TO KEEP WELL by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U. S. Senator from New York

Don Hiking Shoes on Brisk Mornings

HAVE you stored up strength and energy enough to last through the winter? If so, do you intend to trust to your reserves and do nothing to keep them intact?

One objection I have to vacations is that we are apt to limit our out-door living, exposure to sunshine, muscular exertion and outside activities to that one brief season.

DR. COPELAND

Of course, I have city dwellers in mind when I say this. Country people are out-of-doors every month of the year. That is why they are more hardy and sturdy in most respects than town folks. They make their mistakes, too, but that is another story.

Too many people are "thin blooded." They hate exposure and cold, easily chilling to the very bone.

Do you recall how you feel on a cool morning, before furnace heat is supplied regularly and you get out of a tepid bath? You shiver enough to shake the gooseflesh off your suffering body.

But by the time you have given yourself a brisk rubbing with a crash towel you are in a glow of warmth and ready for anything. All the shivers have been forgotten and you sing from sheer joy.

If you will try out-of-door exercise, such as brisk walking, no matter how shivery and miserable you feel at first you can get the same pleasant glow. That is good for you. It means that your sluggish heart has been awakened and is pounding away at a splendid job—cleansing and purifying your whole body. The blood is clearing the cobwebs from your brain and preparing your digestive organs for the energetic task your increased appetite will give them.

But I am not telling you all this merely because it is advice which, if followed, will make you feel good. I have a much higher motive than that. To follow this suggestion will add years to your life.

The trouble with most of you is that you don't exercise. How can your lungs and chest develop unless you breathe deeply? How can you have firmness and plumpness of flesh, not fatness, unless you get plenty of oxygen? How can you have sweet clear skin unless the secretion of the sweat glands washes away impurities?

Think over what I am telling you today. Make up your mind that you will try this prescription. You don't need to go to a drug store to have it filled. It costs no more than a little daily effort and a good pair of shoes.

Answers to Health Queries

W. R. Q.—What causes split finger nails and what can be done for the condition?

A.—Usually due to a circulatory disturbance. Try rubbing a little cold cream into the nails at night and cut them carefully. Improve your health and your circulation will improve.

* * *

A. R. Q.—What do you advise for removing wrinkles?

A.—Massage lightly, using any good cold cream.

* * *

J. S. Q.—How can I reduce the blood cells in my body? I have 1,000,000 more than I should have.

A.—This cannot be done. There is no reason for it.

B. B. Q.—What will increase the growth of my eyelashes?

A.—Use 1 per cent yellow oxide of mercury ointment and apply to the lashes nightly.

C. C. Q.—My little boys had pneumonia last March. Where would be a good place to take them on a vacation? Should they go in bathing?

A.—You can take them most anywhere if they have entirely recovered. I do not see any reason why they should not go in bathing.

J. D. Q.—Would yeast help eczema? Should more than one cake be taken daily?

A.—Since it is used as a blood purifier it may be of benefit. If it agrees with one, one-third of a cake, taken in water or in whatever way is most palatable, after meals, may be helpful.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, October 9

A DAY of peculiar or erratic experiences is foretold from the dominant place of Neptune, both by lunar and solar aspects. Although subtle and possibly sinister forces may strive for power, with craft and intrigue actuating circumstances, the favorable force of Martian stimulus may result in driving such machinations into the open. In all affiliations it would be well to be fortified by a strong and candid front. Withal there may be some leaning toward spiritual or artistic activities.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which subtle or crafty situations will be uppermost or may be brought to a head by courage and straightforwardness. Precaution as to intrigue and strategem is wise.

A child born on this day may have many singular or erratic proclivities or talents, which may be diverted and developed into either high or treacherous uses.

Where nature's end of language is declined and men talk only to conceal the mind.—YOUNG.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN by HELEN ROWLAND

THESE CHARMING HUSBANDS

IN THE mathematics of modern matrimony, it takes two divorces to make one marriage.

* * *

Almost any humane husband will give his wife the money to go away for a little vacation, but it's real love when he wires her the money to come BACK to him.

* * *

If a man keeps the same car or the same wife for more than five years, in these "progressive" days, he is apt to be regarded as either a hero, a little eccentric or a little hard up.

HELEN ROWLAND

It takes a well-trained, home-broken husband to carry his wife's breakfast tray to her without either spilling the coffee or looking abused, self-conscious or self-righteous.

* * *

A man who carried pins under his coat-lapel will make a frugal, thoughtful husband—but he is also apt to be the kind that will snoop in the icebox and go about turning out the electric lights after you.

* * *

To remind a man of a broken promise may be forgivable—but to remind a husband of an election prediction that never came true is sheer cruelty and should be grounds for divorce.

The one thing a loving woman can't forgive a man is his cruelty in hanging up the receiver on her when she is right in the middle of telling him where to head in.

* * *

What breaks the heart of the average college graduate is his discovery that you can't make big money or a big success and make big whoopee at the same time.

* * *

Marriage is the necromancy that sometimes turns a "masterful" lover into a bullying husband and an ardent admirer into a life-critic.

Liquor Always Proves the Eventual Victor, Asserts Fay King

THE END!
WHISKEY
THE CRYSTAL GAZERS!
THE WATER IN OUR COUNTRY IS AS GOOD AS THE WINES IN THOSE COUNTRIES WHERE THEY DARE NOT DRINK THE BAD WATER!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

LIQUOR licks them all in one way or the other! It has put countless people in the gutter—though some of the gutters have been upholstered in plush!

Liquor is the false backbone of the spineless! It is the poor wit of the stupid! It is the alibi for the low and evil!

Many have great courage in every other way, yet lack the courage to ignore those who would kid them for not drinking!

Others in the very face of wreckage liquor has caused in their life, will defy any word against it and toast its "worth" in the last dram of their degradation!

Some great works have been produced by excessive drinkers, but IN SPITE OF, not because of their weakness!

SPORTS

IT has been said that the wars that made England dominant for 200 years were first won on the cricket fields of Eton. It is more than possible that America's healthy interest in clean sports has not only helped her win wars but has kept her out of wars.

A nation that stampedes the gates of baseball parks and turns out in crowds of hundreds of thousands to jam football stadiums has little time for futile bickerings with other nations. It is better occupied.

There is probably no better augury for the fate of America than its devouring interest in clean sports. For hundreds of thousands of readers, the sports pages of the newspaper claim first attention.

What happened at the Polo Grounds in New York—on the tennis courts of Wimbledon—the golf links at Scioto or St. Andrews—cinder path, race track, or swimming tank—whatever happens, whenever and wherever it happens—blow and inning, stroke and play, speed and finish—it is promptly, accurately, dramatically, and authoritatively recounted for the more than twenty million readers of the Hearst Newspapers by the master writers of every branch of sport, and later analyzed by the principals in most of the contests.

Only a great newspaper organization could cover sports on such a scale as do these newspapers.

Through no other channel can the sport-loving people of America obtain such full and colorful pictures of the outdoor things in which they are interested.

This fact holds the allegiance of fans, and in this one way alone Hearst Newspapers render a great national service by the part they play in fostering in the minds of young America a lively interest in clean sport—in helping to maintain this in the healthy minds of a nation of sport-loving people.

Developments and Incidents of Hollywood's Movie Colony Chronicled Along With Local Amusement News

Anna Q. Nilsson, Long Idle Because Horse Threw Her Off, To Resume Acting This Week

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8.

THE injuries sustained by Anna Q. Nilsson when she was thrown by a fractious horse, were sufficient to keep her a "shut-in" at her Malibou Beach home all through the summer. But now that even semi-tropical Hollywood is feeling a bit of the crisp tang of autumn, Anna declares that she is entirely well again and ready to begin work. Accordingly October 19 has been set as the date upon which Anna Q. will report on the lot all made up for the leading feminine role in "Blockade."

As Anna's leading man the capable Warner Baxter has been selected from a dozen candidates. William Seitz will direct. With Anna and Warner in the picture the fans are assured of good entertainment, for each always contributes just a little more to a role than is expected. One of the pleasant surprises of the season was Baxter's portrayal of the Indian, Alessandro, in "Ramon."

Our prophecy department may take a bow on the news printed some time back, that the elfin redhead, Merna Kennedy, will not play opposite Charlie Chaplin in Charlie's new picture, "City Lights." Moreover her contract with Chaplin, expiring in November, will not be renewed. Just what Merna will do next remains to be seen. There should be no dearth of offers for her services. In fact I am advised that there have already been calls from two studios. What this capable little trouper needs most is a series of pictures to be shown as soon as possible. Although she has been under salary she has made only one photoplay during the past three years. Tis was "The Circus," produced during the time when Charlie's future was fraught with uncertainty.

Jack Gilbert has just one thing to say about his recent New York journey. And the one thing is that come what may, he will not renew his contract with Metro, which comes to an end next May. Jack won't say what happened when he talked with Joseph M. Schenck about going over to United Artists.

Next to Conrad Nagel, the player who has thus far benefited most by the introduction of audible pictures is Lois Wilson. As soon as Lois demonstrated that she possesses an excellent stage voice, which reproduces like nobody's business, engagements piled up ahead of her for more than a year to come. She has been signed for more than a dozen films. At least half of these, probably more, will have sound and dialogue. The talkies have done right by our Lois.

In addition to the output of two-reel comedies for release under the Paramount banner, there will be made at the Christie studios some 32 talking pictures of two-reel length, including both comedies and short dramatic subjects. Among the fun-films the Christies plan to do several based on the Octavius Roy Cohen stories of Negro life in sunny "Bummingham." Several others will be adapted for the screen from playlets.

The motion picture industry certainly provides its share of "good will ambassadors" to Europe. The latest to voice a hankering for a trip across the water is Bebe Daniels, who declares that she will make the tour of the continent early in 1929, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Phyllis Daniels."

If you have any doubts that it is time to begin doing your Christmas shopping early, you should see the great Christmas tree erected on the Fox lot, and covered with the usual stars and tinsel of the season. The tree is there to form a background for still pictures of all the pretty actresses which will appear in December magazines and roto sections.

Nick Grinde, who has been directing all the Col. Tim McCoy "Westerns" on the Metro lot, has been appointed assistant to Cecil B. De Mille. This is the position formerly held by Frank Urson, whose tragic death this summer was one of the severest shocks sustained by the film colony during 1928.

Pathe had better make up its mind about Marian Nixon. Marian has completed her work in "Geraldine," and Pathe has an option on her further services. In the event that this is not exercised, the chances are strongly in favor of Marian going over to First National to work as Richard Barthelemess' leading woman in "Weary River."

Sue Carol will get busy in a Fox picture within the next few days. All Sue's pals will be eager to hear of her adventures "Chasing Through Europe."

Russell Simpson had scarcely unpacked his grip, after his Utah and Idaho location trips, when he received a call to play a part in "Noisy Neighbors," which "Chuck" Reisner is about to begin for Pathe. Simpson is a great character man. He received his training on the stage under Belasco.

SEEK IDENTITY OF MAN FOUND DEAD IN RIVER

Efforts are being made at the county morgue to identify the body of a man, about 60, recovered from the Ohio River at the foot of Phillips avenue, Neville Island, yesterday. Well dressed and groomed, with a gray mustache, the man was a victim of drowning, the coroner's report states. Fifteen cents, a watch and knife were found in his clothing.

PITT REOPENS TONIGHT

"The Skull," mystery comedy, opens the regular season of the Pitt this evening. The theater has undergone a series of extensive repairs, and Pittsburgh patrons will see practically a new theater tonight when the doors are thrown open.

Beginning tonight, the Theater Guild of New York will present the third of five plays of its first subscription season in Pittsburgh in the Nixon. "The Guardsman," by Ferenc Molnar, will be played by a company including Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne, Ernest Cossart, Elliot Cabot, Hortense Alden, Jane Wheatley and Hannam Clark.

"Blossom Time," operetta based on the life and romance of Franz Schubert, opens its engagement in the Alvin this evening. The producers of "Blossom Time" have provided everything new from curtain to curtain, and have chosen for the cast the leading players of various "Blossom Time" companies of the past. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

Monday evening, October 15, the Theater Guild will present George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" in the Nixon. The plot of "Arms and the Man" is perhaps best known to theater goers in the musical version, "The Chocolate Soldier." Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will have the leading roles.

The lovely complexions you see on the screen—

WHAT charm radiantly fresh smooth skin gives a girl—you know it the instant the close-up is flashed on the screen!

Exquisitely smooth skin is more important for loveliness than anything else, motion picture directors say. Because their skin must be lovely under the cruel lights of the close-up, screen stars guard it very carefully.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. There are in Hollywood 433 important actresses, including all stars—417 of these use Lux Toilet Soap. All the great film studios, too, have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

"I used to say 'it is impossible—one cannot find a soap of the luxury of imported soaps in America!' Then I found Lux Toilet Soap. As fine as the costliest French soap, makes my skin wonderfully soft and smooth."

Greta Nissen

"A star must have smooth skin," declares pretty BETTY BRONSON (Warner Bros.). "Everything shows in a close-up. I find this lovely white soap is wonderful for my skin."

GILDA GRAY, who lends her loveliness to United Artists, says, "Only an exquisite skin can look charming in a close-up. I use Lux Toilet Soap for mine—it keeps it like velvet."

Yankees Near Another World Championship —McKechnie Outfit Fails to Brace — Cards' Fielding Off Color—New York Is Superior Club—Ruth, Gehrig Star — Onslow and Durocher Have Fist-Fight.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—There appeared to be only one question left today in connection with the world series, and that was as to whether the Yankees would win the big title in four straight games for the second time in succession, or would be delayed for at least another day in sewing up the highest honors in baseball.

Jess Haines

The only point that remained in doubt after the Hugmen hung up their third consecutive victory yesterday by a 7-to-3 score seemed to be the length of time the Redbirds would be able to last. Though conceding McKechnie's men a possible chance of winning the fourth game, the majority of baseball men attending the series did not hesitate to express the opinion that the groggy Missourians would not be able to extend the one-sided competition beyond a fifth encounter.

AS FAR as the outcome of the series itself is concerned, that appears to be settled beyond any probability of a change. The Yankees could lose three games out of four and yet win the championship of the globe and the long end of the players' pool, whereas for the National Leaguers to turn seemingly certain defeat into the most sensational triumph in world series history, it would be necessary for them to capture four games in succession.

It is possible for them to do so, of course, just as practically anything is possible in baseball, but as far as serious consideration is concerned, it may be regarded as something that happens only in story books and never on the ball field.

IN ADDITION to the apparently hopeless mathematical odds against them, the Cardinals suffer so greatly by comparison with the Yankees in the matter of playing ability, or at least of present form, that there seems to be no chance for them. It had been figured that the shift to their home grounds yesterday and the great reception given to them by the St. Louis fans would cause McKechnie's players to take at least a temporary brace and check the drive begun by the Yanks in New York last Thursday and Friday, but the expected brace failed to put in an appearance. The Redbirds were beaten just as decisevely as they were laced twice in New York last week.

THE St. Louis men picked up a bit in their batting, it is true, making two more hits than they had made in the previous two games, and two more, by the way, than the New Yorkers made yesterday, but they were unable to turn them into the necessary runs. And at that they were given unusual opportunities by the errors of their opponents, but failed to profit by them as the succeeding batsmen were unable to help around the runners already on the bases.

Cedric Durst's wretched judgment on Bottomley's fly in the first inning gave the home club its first two runs and the lead in the first inning, but after that the Cardinals were so helpless before Tom Zachary, particularly when they had men on the paths, that one more run was all that they could register in eight innings.

Tom Zachary

THE FIELDING of the Cardinals also was off color and contributed to the retirement of Jess Haines before the finish. This was especially true of the sixth inning, when the Yanks made three runs on only three hits, a double error by Catcher Jimmy Wilson being mainly responsible.

There isn't a single department in which the Redbirds may be said to have compared with the American Leaguers. They have been out-fielded as well as out-batted, and even in the matter of pitching, where the Cards were doped to have their greatest advantage, the Gothamites have had all the better of the argument. Not one of the three starting St. Louis pitchers has gone the distance, while every one of the New York's trio of starting boxmen has pitched a complete game. It must be said for Wee Willie Sherdel, however, that he pitched good ball after so unfortunate a start in the first event of the series and was lifted only for pitch-hitting reasons.

IN SHORT, there has been no comparison between the two clubs from any angle. In spite of their crippled state, the Yanks have played rings around the National Leaguers, and have stood out as the superior team from every point of view.

Two players in particular are responsible for the vastly better showing of the Yanks. Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig would be almost enough in themselves to beat the average ball club with the assistance of a pitcher and a catcher. The work of these two stars in every game of the series thus far has been dazzlingly brilliant, and not only have they been terrors as the big guns in the Yankee attack, as usual, but their fielding has also been superlatively good and they have performed all-around in most remarkable style. Ruth had another great day in the field yesterday, and made it clearer than ever that he would be a great ball player even if he were only an average .300 hitter.

GEHRIG yesterday put himself in the select circle of world series batting heroes. He is only the fifth man ever to make two home runs in one world series game. The four others to do it were Babe Ruth, in 1923 and 1926 (the Bambino made three in one contest in the latter year) against the Giants and Cardinals, respectively; Benny Kauff of the Giants against the White Sox in 1917; Harry Hooper of the Red Sox, in 1915, against the Phillies; and Joe Harris, then with the Senators, in 1925, against the Pirates.

Cedric Durst

Gehrig also equaled in the first three games the world series record for runs knocked in. He drove no fewer than eight tallies over the pan for the Yanks, tying the mark set by Bob Meusel of the Yanks against the Giants in 1923. It took six games for Meusel to do what Gehrig did in the first three tilts this fall.

THE Yankee team as a whole has appeared to be bent on record smashing. Not only are the Hugmen

BEGINS CAREER EARLY

Almost from the time he was able to toddle about, Cuddy DeMarco, local junior-welterweight boxer, was showing his skill with the boxing gloves. Here is an early picture of him with his brother, Freddie. They did a child boxing act at smokers and on the stage, along with another brother. Freddie has been blind since he was 13, when a playmate accidentally discharged a rifle into his eyes during target practice.

DeMarco Real Veteran Of Ring at Age of 25

CAGY BOXER

In taking on all comers anywhere and everywhere, DeMarco naturally has suffered his share of defeats, but he also has had his moments of brilliancy and has scored some notable triumphs over stars. One of his greatest performances was halting the winning career of Jack Zivic, back in 1925, when the latter was the knockout sensation around Pittsburgh and Cuddy was faring indifferently. He later defeated Zivic again in a return bout. He is recognized as one of the cagiest ringmen in these parts, one who on a good night is well nigh unbeatable in his class.

MAKES GOOD AS AMATEUR

At the age of 17, Cuddy took up the business of boxing in a more serious way, going out after honors as an amateur. He was successful from the start and after a year as a simon-pure turned professional in 1921 under the management of Jim Buchanan, of Charleroi, later switching over to James (Red) Mason, with whom he has been ever since. He has fought many of the stars of the ring in the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight classes, and recently, in compiling his record, discovered that he has had the unusual number of 326 professional bouts in less than seven years.

BENNY CONFERS WITH LOCAL INTERESTS

BENNY LEONARD, retired lightweight champion of the world, is in Pittsburgh today conferring with local interests to close a deal whereby the Pittsburgh Hockey Club of the National Professional League will pass to the control of a syndicate of which he will be a member.

Leonard will not make his headquarters here, on account of other interests in New York, but will be treasurer of the club and will "commute" regularly between the two cities.

Odie Cleghorn, manager of the locals last season, also is in town and sitting in on the confab. It is likely he will sign to head the club again. He made a great finish last year and got into the final playoffs after a disastrous first-half season.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—Lou Gehrig may have been pepped up with the "die-for-dear-old-Rutgers" spirit yesterday when he flew into Frankie Frisch on a double play ball, stepped on the Fordham flash and opened the way for three runs that upset the Redbirds for the afternoon. Gehrig, it is stated again, may have been imbued with the old collegiate spirit, but in view of other incidental happenings of the afternoon, it would seem that Lou merely stole a page from the bright lexicon of John McGraw, Fred Clarke, Kid Gleason and other fighters who knew their stuff when running the sacks.

Here was the situation. The spirit of battle was at a feverish state as the contest went deadlocked into the sixth. It seems that a lot of "riding" was in progress. Jack Onslow, who does a lot of jockey stuff himself, was a fine target for the Yankees, whose dugout was directly behind Onslow as he couched at first base. As the game proceeded, Jack and his hecklers waxed rather loud in their comment and it is altogether possible that the two teams absorbed some of the spirit, especially the Yankees.

Koenig opened the sixth with a single, but Haines moved to get out of the hole by making Ruth hit a ball on the ground to Frisch. Frank was playing almost directly behind Bottomley. The Fordham flash astonished the multitude by throwing to second after taking Ruth's mean bounder. Rabbit stepped on the bag, caught the ball and Umpire Owens waved Koenig out, under strong protest from the Yanks.

Haines was so careful as he worked on Gehrig that he walked Lou. The immediate danger seemed to be over when Meusel bounded to High. Andy's throw to Frisch stopped Gehrig, but Lou crashed into Frank as the latter was set to shoot the ball to Bottomley.

The old and questionable trick

Cochet, Mrs. Bundy Take Net Titles

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Henri Cochet, ace of the French Davis Cup team, overcame the sterling bid of his youthful compatriot, Christian Boussus, 20-year-old southpaw, here yesterday to win the singles championship of the Pacific Southwest tournament. The singles champion of the United States and France won by scores of 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, of Santa Monica, Cal., annexted the women's singles title by sweeping to a convincing straight set victory over Miss Gladman. The scores were, 6-1, 6-2.

HOMESTEAD GRAYS BEAT AMERICAN LEAGUERS, 8-4

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 8.—Homestead Grays experienced little trouble defeating the American League All-Stars, 8-4, in the opening game of their series here before 3,500 fans yesterday. Loose playing behind Walberg of the Athletics, coupled with the Grays' hitting, enabled the colored champs to win. The score:

SPRINGFIELD PREXY DIES

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Robert Prather, 43, president of the Springfield, Ill., Three-I-League baseball club, died suddenly in a hotel room yesterday. Prather was here to attend the world series.

Steve Swetonic May Play With Bucs in '29

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—It is reported that Steve Swetonic, former Pittsburgh sandlot star, who is now a mainstay of the Indianapolis club of the American Association, will be a member of the Pirates' squad when spring training season comes around again. Association managers are said to have told the secret of the pitcher's addition to the Buc hurling staff.

Swetonic had a great season with Indianapolis, having 19 victories and only seven defeats. He made a further impression with brilliant twirling during the recent little world series.

SACRAMENTO WINS HALF

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.(AP.)—The Sacramento Senators won the second half of the Coast League split season by defeating the San Francisco Seals yesterday, 10 to 7, for their second straight victory of the three-game deciding series. San Francisco won the first half of the split.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS by HARRY KECK SPORTS EDITOR

OH, to be crippled like the Yankees!

That's what's the matter with this series. The Yankees are crippled in the field and the experts in the head.

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW BEFORE IT'S ALL OVER. BLAME TODAY'S RAIN FOR ANY DELAY.

The postponement doesn't mean there'll be a double header tomorrow.

Cardinals must have taken some tips from the Pirates on how to beat the Yanks.

Either that or both drank out of the same bottle.

YANKS ARE GOOD FELLOWS AT THAT. THEY DON'T LET THE WORLD SERIES CUT IN ON THE FOOTBALL SEASON.

Trouble with Alex was that they pitched him too soon. Should have waited until he was old enough to be as crippled as the Yanks themselves.

The series is crooked—for the magnates, who won't make any more money that Barney Dreyfuss did last year.

RABBIT MARANVILLE IS BILL McKECHNIE'S PITCHING HOPE FOR THE LAST STAND.

Somebody ought to put something under the pillows of those Yanks

CARDINALS AND YANKS KEPT IDLE BY RAIN

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
International News Service.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—Just when everything semed in readiness to place the rope about the neck of the condemned, the weather man came galloping up with a stay of execution today and, as a result, the world series hopes of the St. Louis Cardinals lived and breathed for at least another 24 hours. It rained with great earnestness late last night and throughout the morning, leaving Judge Landis no alternative but to declare the fourth game of the series between the Cardinals and New York officially off and out until tomorrow.

The pronouncement came as an undeniable boon to a ball club that appeared due to be marched to the scaffold, en masse. But it wasn't a full pardon; merely a reprieve.

Sooner or later, the avid adversaries must get together for this fourth meeting and, with the Yankees having won the first three almost by acclamation, hope for the life of the condemned had all but fled. Their dissolute performance behind Haines yesterday, after they had returned home to a welcome that must have impressed them with its volume and spontaneity, clearly indicated that much the better ball club was winning these games.

ST. LOUIS FANS LOYAL

St. Louis, meaning the ball club, has been outclassed in every respect. But St. Louis, meaning the town, has finished second to none in fan spirit. The town simply left its homes unguarded on Saturday afternoon to congest the railroad station and line the streets for as vociferous a reception as ever a conqueror received. Yesterday they set a local record in attendance and, far from undaunted, they were standing in the rain this morning at the general admission gates when Judge Landis spoke for a moratorium.

This favored the Cardinals only because any delay must come as a break for a losing team. Actually, it did not give either of the contenders a decided advantage, since Waite Hoyt, the Yankee bellwether, received thereby an extra day's rest, which he probably didn't need. He pitched the first game last Thursday and would have been ready to go in again this afternoon. The postponement merely granted a similar boon to Willie Sherdel, who was equally ready.

As a matter of fact, neither club faced a pitching situation that was at all vital. The Yankees had their winners ready to step the rest of the way; The Cardinals were equally situated with their losers.

CARDS REORGANIZE

However, the delay gave the Cards an overnight chance for a much needed re-organization while, to the Yankees, it simply meant that they must wait a trifle longer for what they consider an ultimate victory. They already are well organized.

It wasn't considered likely that the postponement will change McKechnie's pitching plans. He will have to go with Sherdel tomorrow, because if he doesn't win this one, there will be no more and Sherdel to date has been the only pitcher able to keep Ruth and Gehrig in any degree of control. It was the hitting of this pair that beat him on Thursday, yet perfect outfielding would have nullified at least one of Ruth's doubles on that occasion and a few hits against Hoyt would have made Sherdel's effort the subject of eulogies, instead of regrets. It was much the same with him in the 1926 series, so it may be assumed that Sherdel's ability to constrain the Yankees has some degree of permanence.

worked. Frisch let go of the ball, but the impact made his toss low. Gehrig followed through by falling on top of Frank, who was slightly injured in the foot. Meantime Bottomley made a thrilling stop of the runaway ball, with Ruth heading for the plate.

Sunny Jim let fly to Wilson, who turned to touch Bambino. Now Babe is the nearest thing to the Broadway Limited in baseball and when he dove into Wilson something had to give. Wilson was knocked for the proverbial goal and, unfortunately, he dropped the ball. He was still dazed as he retrieved it and made a wild pass to second with the idea of stopping Meusel. The throw went into centerfield, Meusel taking third. Lazzeri walked and the two Yanks on the bases added to the bush league behavior of the Redbirds by putting over a neat double steal. Wilson, by this time, was plainly unsettled.

After the sixth inning, the Cards were just a ball club with nothing to mark them as champions of a major league circuit. They matched the spirited play of the Yanks for a time, but after Ruth and Gehrig finished with the football stuff, there was little snap to the play of the home team and this mood was reflected in the hands a little later as hundreds moved toward the exits. They had seen enough.

Rabbit Maranville fought hard all the way. Every time Rabbit gets a chance, he dives into the bases. His wild antics at second yesterday causing a couple of mixups. Rabbit jumped into Koenig on a force play and Tony Lazzeri threw the ball low enough to let Rabbit reach the bag in safety. Later Maranville hit a Texas League single to left and was checked. Ruth to Koenig, on a close action as he tried to carry the tying run to the middle bag with one out. Rabbit gave Umpire Owens a big call down for the ruling.

CHISOX BLANK CUBS, 2-0

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. — Chicago's American League White Sox, having won back in a day much of the prestige lost during two seasons of reverses, today prepared to enter the sixth game of the city series a little less the underdogs than they had been at any time since the series started.

Tommy Thomas, Sox pitching ace, yesterday made up to a certain extent for the three drubbings the National League Cubs already had given his teammates by shutting out the Cubs 2 to 0.

This victory makes the count for the series: Cubs, 3; Sox, 2. The score:

Olympics Top Tigers, 32-0

By TOM BIRKS.

WITH a brilliant day, local independent football aggregations played to wonderful crowds but in the long list of games nothing of a sensational nature happened.

McKeesport Olympics went the right way, defeating the Tiffany Tigers by a 32-to-0 score. Burns and Charleroi played a scoreless tie. Twenty-seventh Ward Athletics got bumped, 13 to 0, two fumbles causing the trouble; Cornopolis defeated the Eighth Ward Traders, 12 to 6, Linwood stopped Oakmont by a 6-to-0 score, when Schirmer got away on a fumble for a run the length of the field, and East Pittsburgh kept its slate clean by defeating South Greensburg by a 7-to-0 tally.

McKeesport Crimsons won from the Fifteenth Ward Traders, 6-0; West View had a lucky break in beating Irwin Scholastics, 6-0, as Irwin had all the play in the second half, but fumbles prevented a score; Carrick defeated the McKeesport Bulldogs, 32 to 0; East Liberty Paulsons stopped the Allison Club, 6-0; Venice defeated the Pleasant Valley Smilers by a 6-to-0 count; Beltzhoover Scholastics sprang a surprise by smashing Marshall Tech in a 19-to-0 game.

There was plenty of kicking around last evening, teams complaining regarding the home official bug-a-boo. It is an absolute fact that quite a number of clubs are committing nothing less than murder and getting away with it. Some of the officials apparently do not care to see the rough stuff that is being pulled in some of the games.

Something was wrong with the East Pittsburgh battering ram against Greensburg, Sunday. The Firemen won all right, but the punch that carried them to a championship semi-final last year was missing. It was a matter of either Greensburg being underrated or the Valley boys missing on a couple of cylinders in the absence of Coach Slessinger, the Fireman's manager. They crossed the visitors' goal line in the initial quarter, and Wambaugh, one of the best kickers in the district, added the try for point. Supporters of the Zoltac aggregation figured a big score would be rolled up.

However, after that initial touchdown, Greensburg managed to smear everything that East Pittsburgh started.

South Greensburg could not do a thing against East Pittsburgh's line. Bennett, Dillman and Moran worked hard and all scoring was out of the question. The Firemen started a march down the field in the first period and fore the ends were changed, Zoltac had turned the trick. Then it was a matter of holding Greensburg until the final whistle. The lineup:

East Pgh.—7.		Greensburg—0.
Moran	L.E.	Thomas

WILKINSBURG HIGH VICTOR

Wilkinsburg High School's football team won its second victory of the season Saturday, downing Evans City's outfit, 27-6. Wilkinsburg scored early in the contest and threatened the losers' goal throughout. Evans City's only tally came in the final moments, when Gregg picked up a loose ball and dashed across the Holy City goal line. The Scarlet Hurricane's first score came in the opening period after the teams had traded the ball around on a pair of intercepted passes. An Evans City punt was blocked on the 10-yard line, and Bullet Donaldson rushed it across a moment later. Donaldson also contributed to the Burg's second score later in the same period, when he bucked the oval across from the two-yard mark after a series of successful passes. Joie Troglione rang up the third in the second quarter, also after a successful pass, when he scored from the 3-yard line.

In the third quarter, the Burg was handed two points via the safety route, when Abbott was downed behind his own goal line. Capt. Henny Graham scored the last of the Carroll outfits' points in the fourth period, when he loped across from the three-yard mark. The lineup:

Wilkinsburg—27.		Evans City—6.

OUAFI WINS MARATHON

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 8.—(A.P.)—El Ouafi, the Franco-Algerian winner of the 1928 Olympic marathon, won his first race in America yesterday afternoon when Andy Payne, of Claremore, Okla., was forced to withdraw because of an attack of cramps. Payne, winner of C. C. Pyle's transcontinental foot race, dropped out after running 10 miles. He was then more than a mile behind El Ouafi. The total distance was 16 miles.

The Algerian continued to jog around the muddy track at the Tulsa baseball park in an effort to set a new record. The distance was changed to 16 miles by mutual agreement.

El Ouafi ran the distance in 1 hour 39 minutes and 5 seconds. After Payne had withdrawn, El Ouafi announced he would seek to set a record for a circular track. He slowed down when he became confused in the time, however, and failed. Amateur running records for 16 miles, or 25 kilometers, show the record holder to be Hannes Kolehmainen, set in 1922, when he made the distance in 1 hour 22 minutes and 43 seconds.

Local Teams Win Battles

By JESS CARVER.

THERE is a story going the rounds today to the effect that Knute Rockne stopped off in Chicago on his way back from Madison, Wis., yesterday, took a street car out to Chi's Zoo and spent an hour throwing stones in the badger cage. The yarn is probably a myth, but here is something you may bet your hat on—old Knute will throw stones at a lot of football players this week. Don't think he won't.

The defeat of Notre Dame by Wisconsin, 22 to 6, Saturday, while not exactly an upset, was certainly the big happening of the day in the national football circus. Some of the boys had it doped that the Badgers would trip the Irish, but not by 22 to 6. I'm afraid some other team is going to have to pay for that walloping.

The program continued along about as was to be expected as far as tri-state district teams were concerned. Pitt and Carnegie Tech, playing before local audiences, scored overwhelming triumphs over Bethany and Ashland. The way in which Pitt manhandled the Bisons was the surprise, as it was generally expected that Bethany would afford the same stubborn opposition that it served Wash-Jeff in the opening. Maybe this Pitt club is a lot better than folks think. It certainly looked as good as the boasted 1927 team Saturday, especially on the line.

SCHNUPP'S HURT SLIGHT

Tech is rejoicing today over the fact that Len Schnupp did not fracture his shoulder in the Ashland contest, as was first reported. The big boy with the big mitts only strained a ligament and will be fit to play against Wash-Jeff two weeks hence. He won't see action against Thiel, so Wally Steffen told me Saturday night before he departed for Chicago.

There should have been a crowd and a brass band at the station to welcome home the Durable Dukes yesterday as they returned from the scene of their 10-0 triumph over a husky St. Thomas College eleven at Scranton. The Dukes entered this game on the short end, but they presented such a stubborn defense and such a well-planned and executed attack that Jack Harding and his boys had to take one on the button.

The surprise of the day in the sector was the 7-7 tie that Grove City and St. Francis played at Grove City. The Grovers were primed to make a Roman holiday out of the game, expecting to score at least three touchdowns against the Saints. How rude was the awakening. Grove City will get going, though, never fear, and maybe St. Francis will cut a bit of ice also.

Bucknell presented another fine defense and scintillating attack at Beaver Falls and gladdened the hearts of a stand full of Bison alumni by whipping Geneva, 13 to 7, and making up for the 0-0 tie the Covenanters held them to a year ago. In Brumbaugh, hard-hitting and fast-running halfback, Snavley and Hangartner seem to have a much-to-be-feared threat. Geneva battled valiantly, but they weren't playing Adrian Saturday.

West Virginia scalped the Haskell Indians and scalped them well at Wheeling, outplaying the Injuns at all stages of the game. The victory is expected to serve as a morale builder for the game with Pitt this week, the fast major contest for the city.

Westminster lost out to Allegheny, the Methodists winning a bitterly contested battle, 13 to 6, Allegheny had to tally twice in the second half to win.

Wash-Jeff duplicated its 24-0 score of the opening day by taking the doggedly battling Waynesburg Yellow Jackets into camp at Washington. Andy Kerr's team played some more heads-up football. The Presidents, who face Elmer Layden's Dukes this week, are making some of the boys sit up and think a bit. The outlook at Washington was slightly indigo prior to the opening of the season to everyone but Andy and the boys. The Prexys are not running up big scores, but they are winning ball games, and their goal line is still fresh—don't forget that.

Penn State had some difficulty in winning over Gettysburg and will have more in striking Bucknell this week. West Virginia Wesleyan gave New York University an interesting afternoon, losing 26 to 7.

PITT PLAYS W. VA.

The Pitt-West Virginia game in the Stadium is the big one of the week, with the Duquesne-President battle at Washington a close second. This contest looms as a real test for the Red and Black, especially since the Dukes seem to have a potent punch among their belongings. Their defense is admirable, or has been so far.

Grove City meets John Carroll, Ralph Vince's Cleveland team, at Grove City; Allegheny goes to Hanover for its annual licking; Westminster and St. Francis meet at New Wilmington; Geneva takes on Waynesburg in a Conference battle at Waynesburg; West Virginia Wesleyan faces Concord at Concord, and D. & E. after a week's rest, engages Bluefield Teachers at Bluefield in the remaining contests of the week. Bethany is idle.

before they make world series unpopular.

World series are so short these days that they must have efficiency experts running them.

AND GRAHAM MacNAMEE CAN BROADCAST THEM AS A SIDELINE.

Beginning next fall, they'll print tickets for only four games. And less if the Yankees are in it again.

The track season is with us again. Only Pitt and Tech are running in football uniforms.

HAD BETHANY AND ASHLAND THINKING THE YANKS WERE ON 'EM WITH THOSE 53-0 AND 65-0 SCORES SATURDAY.

Eighteen touchdowns in all. All the home boys needed were a signal and a goal line to cross.

Notre Dame and Michigan batted for the Cardinals. And got socked by cripples.

BEWARE OF CRIPPLES, OR TEAMS COACHED BY A GUY WITH A NAME LIKE GLENN THISTLETHWAITE. SAY THAT LAST NAME OVER AGAIN—IF YOU CAN.

Phil McGraw wants $2,500 and Jimmy Goodrich $2,000 to fight Phil Goldstein at Motor Square Garden. Johnny Mellow, a better man than either, will do it for the price of admission next Monday night.

That's the way with fighters. The better they are the easier they are to do business with. When they can't fight they can count money. Or at least demand it.

Packo and McFowler battle again at McKeesport Thursday night. The gamblers are hoping one of them gets crippled so they can bet on him.

HASKELL INDIANS WERE SCALPED BY THE MOUNTAINEERS AT WHEELING SATURDAY.

Dukes scored their second straight victory. Getting to be as consistent as the Yanks.

Fable: Once upon a time the Yankees were in a world series. And the issue was in doubt.

MANY AN INMATE OF THE POOR HOUSE GOT THAT WAY BETTING AGAINST THE YANKS.

Connie Mack will not depend on veterans next year. He is going to raid a hospital for his material.

Only thing that has kept Babe Ruth from being a star all along is that he enjoyed perfect health and suffered no injuries until the A's began to act tough.

HE STILL THINKS HE'S BATTLING THE A'S IN THE WORLD SERIES. IF HE COMES TO, THE CARDS WILL HAVE A CHANCE.

BIXLER COPS SHOOT EVENT

Seventeen gunners assembled on the grounds of the Brookview Gun Club Saturday for the farewell shoot of the retiring secretary, whose change in position takes him to Erie.

Floyd Bixler and Edna Lautenslager tied for the high gun honors in the trophy event, and after two shoot-offs Bixler succeeded in taking the A class trophy, 24 to 23.

N. W. Lower and Pop Besser tied for the B class trophy, and after the shoot-off Pop took the trophy. Another tie in the Class C was decided by a shoot-off between Ed Nadolny and R. M. Thompson. After the first shoot-off, another tie was decided by a toss, when Ed was favored. The scores:

Floyd Bixler, 45 out of 50; Miss Edna Lautenslager, 45; W. E. Lower, 44; G. J. Fuller, 44; N. M. Lower, 43; Pop Besser, 43; E. E. Mallassee, 42; O. Nadolny, 41; W. B. Wilcy Moore Unable to Stay Away

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—Wilcy Moore, star of last season and the last world series, who was released at his own request some weeks ago, found himself unable to withstand the pressure and reported to manager Huggins before the game. Wilcy can't pitch, but he certainly was in there rooting. Moore came up from Hollis, Okla., and was the only representative of that metropolis in the overflow crowd.

There were any number of brown derbies in evidence, but some question about whether their wearers were for Al or "Oil" Smith.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

the only club that ever won seven world series games in succession, but the manner in which they have been getting runners around and making their hits count for runs has astonished the oldest baseball followers. Count up their totals for the first three games and you will find that they scored 20 runs on only 22 hits. Two of the 22 hits did not figure in the run-getting, so that the Gothamites actually scored 20 runs on 20 hits, or an average of one run to a safety.

JIM BOTTOMLEY, who had been expected to be the main punch in the Cardinal attack has, instead, been one of the worst busts of the series. His only hit yesterday, a triple in the first inning that knocked in two runs, was merely a fluke, as Durst should have caught it with the utmost ease. On his six other times at bat out of his last seven trips to the plate, Bottomley has struck out four times (three of them in succession), fouled out to the catcher and grounded out to Gehrig. Only one fair ball, and that not out of the infield, in the six tries.

BETTING on the series has come to a dead stop. Before the first game, odds of 6 to 5, and in a few cases, 7 to 5, were given on the Cardinals to win the series, but last night among the gambling fraternity there was no betting at all on the outcome of the series, the Yanks being generally regarded as having it safe in their pockets. The betting on the fourth game of the set was "4 to 5 and take your pick."

MANY complaints were heard yesterday about large numbers of tickets having fallen into the hands of speculators. The Cardinal management announced a couple of days ago that there had been a complete sell-out of pasteboards for all local games and that it had been forced to return $1,000,000 in certified checks on applications that could not be filled, but it appeared that many of the tickets sold had been in some manner obtained by scalpers, who demanded sky-high prices for them from fans whose applications had been returned.

One man reported that he had accompanied his application with 66 rain checks, showing that he had been a patron at practically every game played by the Cardinals during the regular season, but said that his check had come back in jig time.

GOAT-GETTING tactics common to baseball, and particularly to world series competition, culminated in a battle of fists after the third game of the titular string between the Cardinals and Yankees here yesterday afternoon. The participants in the fistic aftermath were Jack Onslow, of Tarentum, former Pirate coach, and now serving in a similar capacity for the Redbirds, and Leo Durocher, utility infielder of the Yankees.

DURING the game some of the New York players, Durocher in particular, had been "riding" Onslow in relation to remarks addressed to them by Onslow himself, according to their own assertions—and at the conclusion of play the verbal exchange was resumed in such heated fashion that Onslow and Durocher finally came to blows. Several punches were landed by each combatant before Babe Ruth thrust his huge form between the principals and ended the fight by pinning Onslow against the grandstand while other members of the Yankee team led Durocher away.

12 RULES FOR SUCCESS
by GENE TUNNEY
RETIRED HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

GENEROSITY BRINGS CONTENTMENT

IN THE historic land of Palestine there is a Dead Sea. Nothing can live in it and the flow of the clear rushing waters of the Jordan are held in the embrace of death.

There are some lives that are dead seas. They have no interest in existence or in anything about them, because they hold everything that comes their way to its death and never reveal the least sign of a generous nature.

It is a poor, miserable existence, to say the least, to be so interested in self that the humans around us can find no entrance into our stingy souls. No highly ordered mind ever was selfish. It is the surest road to uselessness and loneliness. It is the life of a miser bathing his skinny hands in his river of gold. It is the spirit of the recluse living a meager, aimless life in his filth and dirt. It is the cynic moving among his fellows, scowling and ridiculing every smile and song. In short, it is a life that makes every company miserable, takes the melody out of every song, the sweetness out of every flower and pushes the skull and cross-bones into every feast.

THE TRUE LIFE.

The true life realizes that possession means debt. The fact that we have automatically places us under obligations to every living being. The man who has is in debt to the man who has not. The man with an education is in debt to smile is in debt to the man with a groan. The man with a dollar is in debt to the man with a penny. The man with vision is in debt to the blind, the man with hearing in debt to the deaf, the man with strong physical powers under obligation to the paralytic. Generosity brings contentment, happiness, cheer and success.

There is a strong call in this day for generosity in our judgment of men. Have we all the data at our command to reveal to us why one man is strong and another weak? Do you know what strains flow from our ancestral hills into our personalities? There were 120 musicians in the Bach family. The Jute family of Western New York was one of the weaklings and cost the state more than $1,000,000.

It is always well to ask what is the source of the strain and how does all this come about. Every appeal for crippled children, decrepit age, helpless bodies, sick souls and deficient mentality ought to challenge our generous natures to intelligent help.

A thoughtless public, in a moment when its judgment is warped, speaks of boxing and boxers as brutal. Whatever may be the faults of the men who follow this profession, selfishness is not one of them. They are generous with their earnings, oftentimes too much so—when you consider the brief time they have to make money.

BOXERS BIG OF HEART.

Men meet as antagonists in the ring—but never carry beyond the ropes petty feelings that may be seen elsewhere in the great arena of life.

I shall always remember fondly and cherish the fellowship of the big-hearted boxers whom I have had the pleasure of knowing. Their social qualities may not have been of the drawing room type and their educational advantages more often limited, nevertheless they had hearts as big as the proverbial ox, always had a good word to say for their successful rivals and always a dollar ready to give to any worthy cause that pulled at their heart strings—for remember they were all good at heart.

Selfishness is a stagnant pool while generosity is a flowing and healing stream of life bringing joy and happiness to everything and everybody along the way. In building a life do not forget that generosity is a vital part of a man's makeup and a rule that cannot be disobeyed.

PENNSYLVANIA SECOND IN LESLIE CUP TOURNEY

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The Metropolitan district's representatives Saturday won the Leslie international golf cup, scoring 56½ points, Pennsylvania was second with 47½; Canada third with 42, and Massachusetts, defending champions, fourth and last with 34.

The New York district golfers led the field in the Scotch foursomes in the morning, but Canada sprang a surprise by scoring 19 points in the afternoon singles matches, New York scored 18; Pennsylvania 15 and Massachusetts, 8.

Gene Homans and George Voigt of the metropolitan district team scored the maximum number of points in the singles as did Ross Somerville of Canada.

Forbes

Our Prosperity Is Uneven. Average Stock Prices Off.

—By B. C. FORBES—

PROSPERITY is distinctly uneven. Stock quotations have climbed to unprecedented heights. But commercial failures last quarter were more numerous than in any third quarter in history. the steel industry is enjoying unusually active times. But textiles are still groveling along in the doldrums. The motor industry is achieving new records. But the shoe industry has long been dull. Some railroads report substantial gains in earnings; others are suffering equally substantial decreases. Prices are as unsatisfactory in the oil industry as they are satisfactory in the non-ferrous metal industries. Construction is extremely active at many points, but has receded sharply elsewhere. Chain stores report larger gross sales, but many independents are suffering. Most utilities are prosperous. But most coal companies are poorly circumstanced. Radio and rayon are on the upgrade; demand for furniture is disappointing.

Similarly certain classes of farmers are doing well, others less well. Grain growers complain of low prices, as do cotton growers. Cattle, hog and sheep raisers have enjoyed quite remunerative prices. Dairy products have found a ready market at good returns, but fruit growers have not fared so satisfactorily.

THE same unevenness has characterized the stock market. The speculative boom has been pronounced in certain motor stocks, mail order stocks, mining and smelting stocks, and many industrial specialties. Against this, there have been declines in not a few issues. The pyrotechnics have latterly been confined to relatively few issues. Under cover of dazzling advances, liquidation has been attempted in other directions.

Notwithstanding, all the spectacular demonstrations in selected issues last week, average quotations on the New York Stock Exchange ended the week several points lower.

THE writer spent most of last week talking intimately with bankers from all sections of the country attending the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association. Caution was voiced by every influential banker interviewed. Not one recommended loading up with stocks at current quotations. Bankers are, of course, seriously disturbed by the monetary condition in Wall Street.

They emphasize that stock speculation is now being conducted almost wholly on loans callable without a moment's notice.

"Out of every $100 loaned to brokers, only $15 is time money," one influential banker pointed out. "This is an entirely new condition. It would be healthier if at least half of the total borrowed consisted of time funds. To make matters worse, 40 per cent of all this unparalleled amount of call money is being supplied by irresponsible parties, not by bankers. This places the whole monetary structure at the mercy of outside interests, not bankers. I cannot see what is to prevent the dizzy structure being pulled down like a house of cards by these unregulated lenders."

The writer shares that view.

NOTHING occurred last week to bring any considerable correction in the money market. The engagement of $5,000,000 in gold in London is a mere drop in the bucket. Very extensive imports of the metal are improbable, although moderate additional amounts are likely to come.

Meanwhile, brokers' loans have been mounting by the hundreds of millions. Call rates ranging from 7 per cent to 10 per cent have attracted funds from innumerable sources outside of regular banking channels and our time money rate of 7¼ to 7½ per cent is almost double the low rates ruling abroad. The fall in the demand rate here to 6 per cent after the week's requirements had been met was not particularly significant.

On the other hand, the writer does not share the view that money rates will continue to rise and rise during the remainder of the year. Something is rather certain to give way before then, causing more sober borrowing.

IF AND when the market definitely turns downward, news now ignored will be emphasized. The withdrawal of the ill-fated Loree Southwestern Railway merger plan serves to emphasize that the Interstate Commerce Commission has not shown much sympathy with the various ambitious consolidations laid before it for approval. In the present temper of the bulls, however, such developments are brushed aside—just as was the distinctly bearish Raskob statement, notwithstanding that when he voiced bullish sentiment some time ago, Wall Street "played them up" most vigorously.

WALL STREET is already discounting a presidential election result agreeable to it. And it is discounting everything else favorable within sight—and then some.

COTTON CROP PLACED AT 13,993,000 BALES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The Department of Agriculture announced today that a cotton crop of 13,993,000 equivalent 500-pound bales is indicated for this year and that the condition of the crop on October 1 was 54.4 per cent of a normal.

Cotton of this year's growth ginned prior to October 1 totaled 4,961,032 bales counting round bales as half bales, the Census Bureau announced today. This compares with 5,944,730 for 1927 and 5,643,139 for 1926.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

Reymer Shares On Market Today--Company in Strong Financial Position. Home Purchase Plan Popular.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE public will share in the ownership of another large Pittsburgh Corporation and a new stock will be available for trading on the local exchange through the offering today of a block of 15,000 shares of Reymer & Brothers, Inc., by J. H. Holmes & Company.

REYMER has been an outstanding name in the confectionery trade in this city for years. The annual business has grown steadily from $600,000 in 1901 to over $3,000,000 in 1927.

IN addition to the operation of a large candy factory, the products of which are distributed through 2,500 dealers, Reymer & Brothers operate 20 retail establishments in this city, of which seven are retail candy stores, five retail cigar stores and eight stands which retail candy and tobacco products.

WITHIN the past few years four attractive and modern tea rooms have been opened in conjunction with candy stores. These promise to become an increasing factor in the business.

Three of the buildings housing retail stores and the factory are owned in fee. The other locations are operated on long term leases.

THE offering increases the outstanding capital stock to 100,000 shares, of a total authorized issue of 200,000 shares of stock without par value. The company has no funded debt, no bank debt and no preferred stock.

In 1927 net earnings after taxes were $118,111, which was equivalent to $1.18 a share on the stock which will be placed on a $1 annual dividend basis.

A STRONG financial position is shown on the balance of June 30. Current assets of $698,713 were 3.8 times the current liabilities. Cash amounted to $252,058 compared with all current liabilities of $182,850. Accounts payable, reserve for bonuses for the current year and accrued Federal income taxes were the only liabilities outside of the common stock.

PHYSICAL properties were valued at $1,738,458 after charging off depreciation of $313,101 on machinery, equipment and fixtures. Good will was valued at only $1. Total assets were $2,493,176. The book value of the common stock was $23.10 a share.

DO people read newspaper ads? President A. C. Robinson, of the Peoples Savings & Trust Company thinks so. Recently t' at institution ran a small ad in the Pittsburgh newspapers, announcing the introduction of its 15-year monthly payment mortgage plan, designed to finance small home building in the Pittsburgh district.

MR. ROBINSON says that more than 1,000 inquiries have already been received. "It proves two things," said Mr. Robinson, "People do read the advertisements and there are thousands of thrifty families in this district seriously considering building new homes."

THE plan is an arrangement which requires the payment of $8.44 monthly on each $1,000 of borrowed money. Including the payment of principal and interest, the mortgage liquidates itself at the end of 15 years.

THE Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company has received the largest order ever placed for interior lighting fixtures. The contract was for 15,000 units for the lighting of the new Fisher Building in Detroit which is now rapidly nearing completion. The initial order for the first section was for 4,500 units, costing $40,000.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Allied Chemical-Steel Common.

The market was highly erratic again today with selected stocks going forward and some of the recent pool favorites being subjected to heavy profit-taking. Call money was easy and it was expected that the opening rate of 6½ per cent would give way to a lower rate later in the day. Copper stocks shot forward at the opening, while the traders sold automobile stocks, but the pressure in other directions placed too heavy a burden on the copper shares and their move halted around noon. Shortly after noon, however, strong buying of Allied Chemical encouraged the bull traders and scattered buying orders firmed up many parts of the list. The Allied Chemical advance was interpreted by informed observers as a probable preliminary indication of a coming advance in Steel common by reason of the fact that Allied Chemical is a large holder of Steel shares. Some Street observers see in Steel and Allied Chemical a market duet something similar to that existing in Du Pont and General Motors. Many times in the past a spurt in Du Pont has been the signal of a pending advance in General Motors.

Standard Sanitary.

Standard Sanitary Manufacturing is one of the high-grade industrial stocks which has failed to discount its future possibilities, says a survey of the company by H. S. Edwards & Co. Standard Sanitary is in its industry what General Motors, General Electric, National Biscuit and American Radiator are in their respective fields. Its record, management and financial strength place it in the class of the industrial elect. Standard is the world's largest manufacturer of cast iron enamel sanitary ware, vitreous china sanitary ware and sanitary brassware. In conservatively capitalized with $4,788,400 of 7 per cent non-cumulative preferred stock and 3,234,486 shares of no-par common. There is no funded debt. The history of the stock has been one of a succession of stock dividends, a policy similar to that of National Biscuit, Woolworth and the Standard Oils. An instance of the conservatism is seen in the carrying of the Canadian subsidiary on the books at $1,000,000, whereas the financial position and earnings of that company would indicate a value of nearer $5,000,000 than the $1,000,000 at which it is carried. Based on estimated earnings of $2.50 on the common this year, Edwards & Co. state that were Sanitary selling in the market at the same average of "times earnings" that 17 other high-grade stocks are currently quoted, Standard would be at about 47½ as compared with today's price of between 38 and 39.

Radio-Keith Deal Not Closed.

Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corporation, says the announcement made that the Radio Corporation of America has secured control of Keith-Albee-Orpheum circuit and film booking offices, is premature. Mr. Kennedy says negotiations between the three organizations have been pending for 10 days and are still pending.

Some of the financial interests who are anticipating merger developments in Keith-Albee have been inclined to favor the preferred stock as a purchase. They point out that the senior issue is convertible into common stock on the basis of three shares of common for one of preferred, and any further advance in the junior shares should be accompanied by a proportionate gain in the preferred.

Reyemers Oversubscribed.

Heavy oversubscription of the Reymer issue, offered today by J. H. Holmes & Co., was reported in Fourth avenue. Allotments were said to have been cut down to as low as 25 per cent of requested number of shares, and brokerage houses reported a wide inquiry on the stock.

Cotton Report Bullish.

The government cotton report places the condition of the crop as of October 1 at 60.3 as compared with 54.2 on October 1, 1927, and a 10-year average of 53.5. The crop is estimated at 13,993,000 bales, against the 1927 final production of 12,955,000 bales. The crop figures were considerably below the preliminary private estimates and resulted in a wide rise in cotton prices. Quotations jumped from $2 to $2.50 a bale when the market reopened following the suspension of trading to receive the report.

World Wheat Output Higher.

The 1928 wheat production as reported by 31 countries is 3,232,139,000 bushels, against 2,996,190,000 bushels in 1927, when they represented about 85 per cent of the estimated world yield, outside of Russia and China.

Gas Stocks Lowest in Years.

Stocks of gasoline on hand are at the lowest figure since 1920, while stocks of petroleum are somewhat lower than at this time in the recent past, according to trade reports.

Record Building in September.

September construction contracts in the territory east of the Rocky Mountains totaled $587,674,000, a new high record for that month, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. This report covers 37 states and includes approximately 91 per cent cent of the total construction in the United States.

ARK. IN TRADING AREA; BLAW KNOX IN DEMAND

The week opened with a fairly large turnover on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, but prices held to a narrow range and the business was well scattered.

The recent activity in Arkansas Gas common appeared to have run into a lull with the shares changing hands in the early market today at 3⅜ and 3½, the level to which they dropped back after having run up suddenly to 3⅞ last week. There has been nothing official as yet to account for the sharp revival of activity in the stock, which was traded in last week to the extent of almost 60,000 shares.

Blaw Knox moved up 2 points in the early trading today, selling at 120, with not much stock for sale around that level. Officials of the company denied reports that a merger of Blaw Knox, Pressed Steel Car and Universal Pipe is under consideration. This story reached the street late last week and was credited with stimulating the rise in Pressed Steel and Universal. There are some inter-locking directorships in the companies mentioned, which fact probably gave rise to the merger story.

Standard Sanitary was fractionally lower here on initial sales at 38¾, but the local quotation was a half point above the price at which the stock opened in New York. McKinney Manufacturing and National Fireproofing preferred were both unchanged, the former at 12 and the latter at 21.

There was an active market in Plymouth Oil again on the local curb, with several hundred shares of the stock changing hands on a range from 26 to 26½. Follansbee Brothers on the curb, held firm, while the new Reymer shares sold again at 30. Formal offering of the Reymer issue is made today by J. H. Holmes & Co.

Mr. Armstrong Boosts Plan for Greater City

Joseph G. Armstrong, county commissioner and chairman of the Allegheny county Republican organization, announces himself in favor of the amendment to the Pennsylvania Constitution which would permit a Metropolitan charter for Pittsburgh. In his statement he stresses the fact that his own personal position is of less importance than giving Pittsburgh the rank it deserves among the great cities of the nation.

He states that he does not object to the retirement of county commissioners under the Metropolitan plan, feeling that "I always have had to take my chances with the others seeking the same promotions I was seeking." Among his reasons for supporting the amendment are the advantages of having Pittsburgh shown to be either the fourth or fifth city in the country in the matter of population.

That, of course, is an important matter, but it is not all. Pittsburgh will benefit, of course, through the recognition that in mere numbers alone it is one of the nation's greatest cities. The value of that will be immense, but the amendment also provides for greater efficiency through the consolidation of various agencies of administration in the creation of districts which will construct public works as a unit. This without in any way substantially reducing the present powers of existing municipal units.

Mr. Armstrong takes a proper and very creditable stand.

Many Disabled Persons Aided by City Bureau

A report covering the activities of the Bureau of the Handicapped from the time it became operative, April 15, this year, until September 15, has been submitted to Mayor Kline and Council. Presented by Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Welfare, of which the bureau is part, it details the nature of the handicaps of the 245 persons to whom the bureau can render service, and what has been done toward helping them to help themselves.

Despite various disabilities the bureau was able to find work for 49 individuals and promise of employment has been made for other applicants, which Mrs. Rauh believes will be fulfilled with increased seasonal production of some industries. Considering the scarcity of employment for normal applicants during the period covered by the report, Mrs. Rauh feels that the placement record of the bureau is exceptional.

The public will feel that such helpful service is commendable, presenting an exemplary standard that might well serve as a stimulus to other city departments.

JUST ABOUT TIRED OF KNOCKING!

New York Day by Day
by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up betimes to see a group of statuettes carved in maple wood and very pretty, too. Then to a pier to greet Daniel Dreyfus, of Paris, and pleasing to watch the enthusiasms of a Frenchman for America in especial our high buildings.

Took breakfast at the Claremont and from a verandah window watched craft in the Hudson and a man in a roadster, making a sharp turn in the road, ran over a white Russian wolf hound and so affected by the mishap he wept like a child, but the dog not badly hurt.

Home where came Ashton Stevens, the Chicago critic, and later Gene Markey, and we quaffed a goblet of the juice of elderberry and began to praise various people in extravagant terms. Later to the last act of "Show Boat" and so to bed.

Road houses serve their choice meals to chauffeurs. It is a neat business policy that pays. The well fed chauffeur always wants to go back again, and without his good will many roadside inns would hang up the shutter.

The theory artistic folk should never marry is specious. Some of the happiest marriages are among artists. Illustrious examples are Kathleen and Charles Norris; Carl and Irita Van Doren and Elinor Wylie and William Rose Benet. In the theater are John Emerson and Anita Loos; Flo Ziegfeld and Billie Burke; Lynn Fontainne and Alfred Lunt; Lee Simonson and Carolyn Hancock. And in the movies Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford. In the dancing world Ted Shawn and Ruth St. Denis and in the field of sociology Bertrand and Dora Russell. And, of course, many others.

The awaited jazz opera is reported for certain at the Metropolitan Opera. Rumors have lingered it would be the joint work of Paul Whiteman and Irving Berlin. Instead it is coming from the city of Berlin, where under the inane name of "Johnny Spielt Auf," it reigned for quite a spell. It is a bit of musical madness at high speed in a railroad station and comes at a time when jazz needs a tonic. According to spies it is about played out. Bodanzky has been selected to conduct for the Metropolitan engagement.

The most expensive cigarets are sold to members only of an ultra New York club. They are especially made in Virginia, gold tipped and twice as long as the average cigaret. In packs of 20 they sell for $3.50. The same club has a cigar selling for $2 each.

Speaking of cigarets, two inveterate cigaret smokers have been able to break away from the habit recently with a simple remedy. In lieu of a cigaret they ate a piece of old-fashioned full strength licorice. Each reported the physical craving vanished after 10 days.

* * *

The same informant—I wouldn't know a thing about this—declares that what Broadway calls a "hangover" is due largely to cigarets. Cigaret consumption increases with a night of drinking. And as an old rounder who has observed many other rounders he said he has never known a gentleman on the loose for the evening to awaken with one of those headaches built for a horse unless he was a cigaret smoker.

* * *

But what gets me are these sleek well barbered worldlings who sit in cafes and burn up two or three cigarets in deep inhalations before the morning coffee arrives. They make a well-known bon vivant and boy about town dizzy just to watch. Curse 'em, with their silken voices and dirty mustaches!

Physical Basis of Internationalism

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Somebody said the other day that all attempts to make peace by arrangement between individual countries, as by the Kellogg Plan, would be futile without some sort of international machinery and disarmament. International questions should be automatically and peacefully settled by law.

We cannot go as far as this. The efforts of Mr. Kellogg and others are not futile. They all help along by setting the mind of the world against war. There must not only be right machinery for settling disputes, but there must be a proper spuit among the peoples.

There is another aspect, however, which is hardly given enough attention. It is the physical aspect.

Quick communication helps to break down isolation, and the greatest friend of war and misunderstanding is provincialism.

The trans-Atlantic liners, the telegraph, telephone, cable and radio have enormously helped. Whatever brings the mind of the world more into unity helps.

Dr. Harry T. Collings of the University of Pennsylvania declared the other day, at Williamstown, that the development of radio and aviation would "do more to improve Latin-American relations with the United States in the next twenty-five years than all we have done in the past one hundred years.

"Tremendous distances and impassable mountains and swamps will be annihilated," he continued. "The whole economic and social structure will be revolutionized. The effect will be felt in the government, in education, in every other relationship among Latin-American peoples with other nations."

Almost all the friction and disputes in the past have been caused by backward methods of transportation and communication. These have caused ignorance, suspicion and distrust, which will be dispelled by the radio and aviation, when Latin-American countries are brought within a few days' travel of each other and the United States.

Railways, highways and telegraph and telephone lines have failed because of the high cost of construction, owing to the nature of the intervening country.

It seems to be the mind of destiny to bring the world closer together. By means of rapid communication and transportation between the countries, little by little the world is becoming more of a unit. Patriotism is giving way before humanity.

Along with the efforts of statesmen and others to make an international mind, progress and invention are moving toward the same end.

A Beautiful Young Woman

She Has Found the Right "Career."

MRS. ROSAMOND PINCHOT GASTON, NOW WORKING FOR GOVERNOR SMITH'S ELECTION.

This young woman, whom thousands saw when she played the part of the nun in "The Miracle," has found a better profession than the stage, the best profession of all, MARRIAGE AND MOTHERHOOD.

At this moment the brilliant, intelligent young daughter of Amos Pinchot is interesting herself in Gov. Smith's campaign for President. Her job is "instructress" to women speakers for Gov. Smith, teaching them how to "get across."

In theater talk that means how to make your meaning reach the minds before you. Young Mrs. Gaston learned about that while she was on the stage. Gov. Smith is fortunate in having her and would be more fortunate if she could go out and speak for him, instead of teaching others to speak.

This is written to call your attention to the beauty and earnestness in this young face.

Miss Rosamond Pinchot, when she raced around the theater in "The Miracle," or as an ambitious young girl, before her theater work, was pleasant to look at, beautiful, athletic, everything that an unmarried American girl could be.

But she is now a great deal MORE, and her face shows it.

It shows in its earnestness that there is only one profession worthy of women, and that is MARRIAGE AND MOTHERHOOD.

The Lord created Adam and Eve in six days of one week and rested on the seventh. Woman creates her children, sometimes as many as a dozen, and NEVER rests thereafter until the beginning of her long, last sleep.

Her days and nights are devoted to her children when they are babies. The care continues through childhood, and the mother's real troubles begin when sons and daughters near the marrying age.

When the children are married the next crop of children appear, and the grandmothers take care of them.

But it is all well worth it.

And as this fine young American face, so full of feeling, proves there is only one career worth while for a girl and that is MOTHERHOOD.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Changing Seasons

"I HAVE several friends," writes Mr. H. J. Rothenberger, of Centreport, Long Island, "who as well as myself would like to have an authentic answer to the question whether a radical change has come over the weather in recent years. People who have resided on Long Island for 40 years claim that in severity the winters of the last three years cannot be compared with those of 30 years ago. They tell stories of snowstorms that covered the ground to the depth of five feet and they think the winters are becoming milder owing to some cause of whose nature they would like to be informed. Some think that the increasing use of radio has something to do with it."

In reply to which it may be said that undoubtedly seasons are variable, more or less from year to year, and to a notable degree in long periods, which themselves are not regular. Various cycles of 30 years, 40 years, 75 years and still others, have been supposed to occur, in which the seasons run through a gamut of changes, but there is no conclusive evidence that any definite cycle really exists. If there be any, the probability is that the changes accord with the variable state of the sun. Certain atmospheric phenomena, such as magnetic storms and auroras have so often coincided with sunspot maxima that one can hardly doubt that there is a casual connection. The weather vagaries of this and other recent years have happened during such a maximum, and similar phenomena have accompanied sunspot maxima in the past. Moreover, careful investigation has shown that the radiation of the sun is variable in intensity in a manner strikingly accordant with its condition as to spottedness. In a few instances it has been believed that particular weather changes could be ascribed to particular outbursts of sunspots. In such cases, however, the sunspots are not supposed to be the active causes of the effects felt on the earth, but only themselves the indications of deeper-lying disturbances in the body of the sun.

A spot suddenly blackening the face of the sun might be compared to the smoke from an unknown gun discharged toward the earth. This idea of a kind of bombardment from the sun with electric grape-shot has actually been affirmed that certain solar outbursts, betrayed by the appearance of spots on the white disk, have been followed after a certain interval of time by electro-magnetic excitement and magnetic storms on the earth, the interval being occupied by the electrons in traversing the gap of 93,000,000 miles that separates us from the sun.

It has also been pointed out that occurrences of this kind are never observed except when the spots break out in such latitudes on the sun as to correspond radially with the direction of the earth.

If these disturbances really are responsible for seasonal variations on the earth, there should, of course, be a close correspondence in time between the spot periods and the weather cycles. In some respects statistics do show a striking correspondence of this kind, but there are discordant observations enough to keep the question still in abeyance, especially as to details.

The average sunspot period covers about eleven years from one maximum to the next. But some believe there are combinations of these periods into longer cycles, in one case of some thirty or thirty-five years, at the critical points of which disturbances of extraordinary power occur. This, if correct, might serve to explain the long period changes that many persons think they have observed. As to the influence of radio on the weather, it may be put out of court, being, at least at present, purely imaginary.

Weather and Crime

SCIENCE, seeking new fields, is now trying to learn what, if any, influence the weather wields on human crimes.

It hasn't got far enough with its findings to be cocksure, but it has uncovered a number of interesting coincidences.

There are, for example, many more housebreakings, burglaries and hold-ups in the winter than when the weather is warm.

On the contrary, midsummer is the time of the most numerous immoralities.

Every time the mercury goes up arrests increase—but only up to about 85 degrees. Above that, the depression of the heat takes the starch out of the criminals. They become too warm to venture.

These may be only coincidences. But they seem reasonable. They concur with common observation. Science wants to be sure. So it is prolonging its quest and promising more authoritative findings later.

Once Overs

Ashamed of Your Wife?

AS a successful man in your line you feel that your wife, perhaps, has not advanced as fast as you have.

You think that she does not seem to fit into the circle you now claim for your friends and acquaintances, formed through your business associations.

You compare your wife with those you meet in a social way.

You wish your wife were as easy and graceful and up to date as these women you meet at public functions and otherwise.

You forget that the men with these seemingly adequate wives made their money long enough ago to have given their wives time to catch up if they were not sufficiently educated for their positions.

You have insisted that your wife pay close attention to her home life.

You have required so much personally that you were unwilling to pay an outsider for that you have worn on the nerves and the health of your whole family, perhaps.

When household duties and domestic concerns are the chief topic at home, and the subject of how to make you a successful business man is put before opportunities to meet people in a gracious way and learn the ways of society, what can you expect?

Give your wife a fair break and don't be ashamed of the woman who has sunk her own individuality that you might make a mark in the world.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Voices

THE wind in the pine trees sighing:
"Too late, too late, forget!"
When the Autumn leaves are flying
Is the voice of an old regret.

The wind in the tall, gray beeches
Is the voice of a timid maid
As she answers when Love beseeches.
Eager, and yet afraid.

The wind through the poplars blowing
Is the voice of an ancient lyre
When the blossoms of dawn are showing
In the flush of the sun-god's fire.

But the wind in the willows singing
To the clouds as they drift above,
Like the music of sweet bells ringing,
Is the voice of my love, my love!

Isn't It So?

Sometimes the grocer's clerk is fresher than the vegetables.

Great Passages from the Bible

God's Saving Benefits

(Isaiah 25; 1-12)

O LORD, thou are my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things; thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth.

For thou hast made of a city an heap; of a defenced city a ruin: a palace of strangers to be no city; it shall never be built.

Therefore shall the strong people glorify thee, the city of the terrible nations shall fear thee.

For thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat, when the blast of the terrible ones is as a storm against the wall.

Thou shalt bring down the noise of strangers, as the heat in a dry place; even the heat with the shadow of a cloud: the branch of the terrible ones shall be brought low.

And in this mountain shall the Lord of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined.

And he will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people, and the vail that is spread over all nations.

He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth: for the Lord hath spoken it.

And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation.

For in this mountain shall the hand of the Lord rest, and Moab shall be trodden down under him, even as straw is trodden down for the dunghill.

And he shall spread forth his hands in the midst of them, as he that swimmeth spreadeth forth his hands to swim: and he shall bring down their pride together with the spoils of their hands.

And the fortress of the high fort of thy walls shall he bring down, lay low, and bring to the ground, even to the dust.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

A PRETTY girl can get away with anything, and a girl that ain't so pretty can get away with almost anything. Somehow, if a nice, motherly old lady sticks you in the eye with her umbrella, you don't think about nothing only how bad it hurts and how stupid the old lady was. But if a real cute girl rakes both eyes with her umbrella, and leaves you enough sight to see what she looks like, you just smile and say, "Won't you please do it again?"

A kinda merry girl with a lot of fun in her eye was standing in line in front of a movie where somebody was about to show, "The Talking Rain Barrel," with lots of sound. There was a terrible long line. This here girl was standing right behind a man with a new blue serge suit on, and he looked like a banker or something. She dropped out of the line, but after a few minutes she come back.

The woman that she stepped in front of says, "Here, you go back to the end of the line!"

"Oh, no!" says the cutie. "This is my place. I just stepped out to telephone."

"How do you know where you was?"

"Why, don't you see, I chalked my initials on the back of this gentleman's coat, and there they are, in red chalk!"

So the woman shut up, and the banker looked around and smiled and said he'd like to buy her ticket if she didn't mind.

Well Worth Trying

CAREFULLY the earnest golfer teed up his ball and prepared to make the drive of his life.

At this stage a woman crossed the links reading a book.

"Fore!" shouted the golfer.

The woman took no heed.

"Fore!" yelled the golfer again, louder than ever, but still the woman wandered slowly on, oblivious of everything.

"What about trying her with two-ninety-eight?" queried the golfer's youthful companion. "She may be one of those bargain fiends."

Right Angles

By ALEXANDER CAIRNS

Be Agreeable

AGREEABLENESS is good manners in action. It is the youfirst of behavior.

Sir Walter Raleigh, spreading his cloak for the feet of the Queen, was more gracious than all the parlor talk of Sir Philip Sidney.

If Reno would speak she could unravel many a tale of marital estrangement which started in the little rills of stubbornness. Rills gather tributaries and grow to rivers and tear away the dams of domestic felicity.

Young Romeos and Juliets often wonder why there is no second outing to the city and the dinner and the theater. Probably it is because they weren't agreeable the first time. Every suggestion for pleasure or diversion was met with the haughty, "Oh, no, I don't want to."

There is a little psychological fallacy lurking in the heart of us all. It is this—that in yielding to the other's suggestion we surrender the citadel of our own ego. The superiority complex is involved here. And that complex is the divine devil of the soul.

What consummate nonsense! Rather than a surrender it is a conquest. The man who can throttle his own or her own desire and accede to the wish of another is a veritable Hannibal of his own soul. That is, the diminutive heart that cedes nothing and demands all.

Moreover, Romeo and Juliet, this matter of being agreeable is a flaming bulletin from your hearts announcing the temperature of your love and whether or no it has a chance of survival. If the agreeable index is low, better have your divorce before your marriage.

Negatively this is an unsightly thing. The disagreeable one is a repulsive moral and ethical leper. The mute lips of every soul cry aloud, "Unclean! Unclean!" when he appears.

But what a romping field of daisies and dandelions is the agreeable soul! What a zenith of perfect comradeship! What a shower of laughter beautified by a rainbow of gladness is the companionship of such! The day and the hike are all too short and all clocks seem to leap forward like kangaroos to their lairs.

One virtue can chase a thousand vices, but two can put ten thousand to flight. And so, being agreeable is never one-sided, but it immediately begets a rivalry as to which shall concede the more. Then that unspoken pain that huddles away in the hearts secret recess is never felt or known, but all is uncorked joy.

To be agreeable tests one's innate culture, but the recompense is worth the trial.
